The Senior Class of Riverside High School

presents A TIME FOR . . .

Time is like a river which flows at times peacefully and at other times with mighty force. As the river goes along, it rushes over many tiny pebbles. Thus, is a man's life in time — one life is but a pebble in the rushing current of centuries.

Even, though the pebble of life may be small, it can be made of many intricate parts. They may involve happiness and sorrow. Others can be used to seek knowledge and make lasting friendships. Still different parts may be used to help others, to pursue a career, or to serve one's country.

However, as the river of time, filled with all these, rushes on; the happenings, the faces, the details of one year could be eroded away. Those who have learned, worked, discovered, given, and enjoyed at Riverside this year may someday find the memories of it being carried away in the current of time. For this reason, the 1966 Pathfinder is presented, to secure the memories of one year — a time for events, people, and moods that will never come again.

DEDICATION

With our most sincere appreciation and deepest admiration we, the Class of 1966, dedicate this fourth edition of the Pathfinder to Mrs. Judith LaRose. To her there is not only a time for teaching, but also a time for assistance, for creating, and for friendship. Those who have not had the wonderful experience of having been in her classes have known her friendship and capable guidance while working with the junior class play or the prom. To these major projects she gave much of her time. But more importantly, Mrs. LaRose always has a smile for everyone, a word of encouragement when things seem to be going completely wrong, and a sincere interest when there is a problem which needs understanding and advice.

As the years pass, there will be times for remembering, and a special person in these memories will be Mrs. LaRose—a wise, respected, and gracious lady who always has time for everyone.

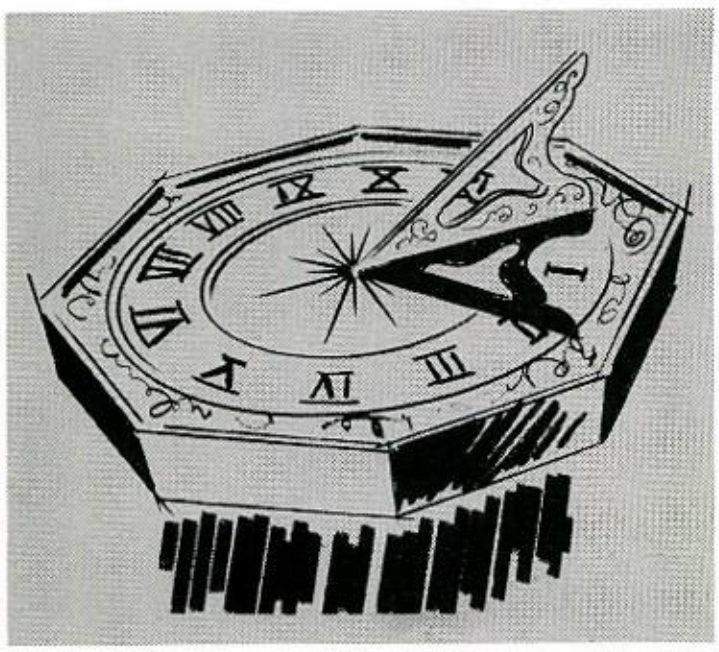
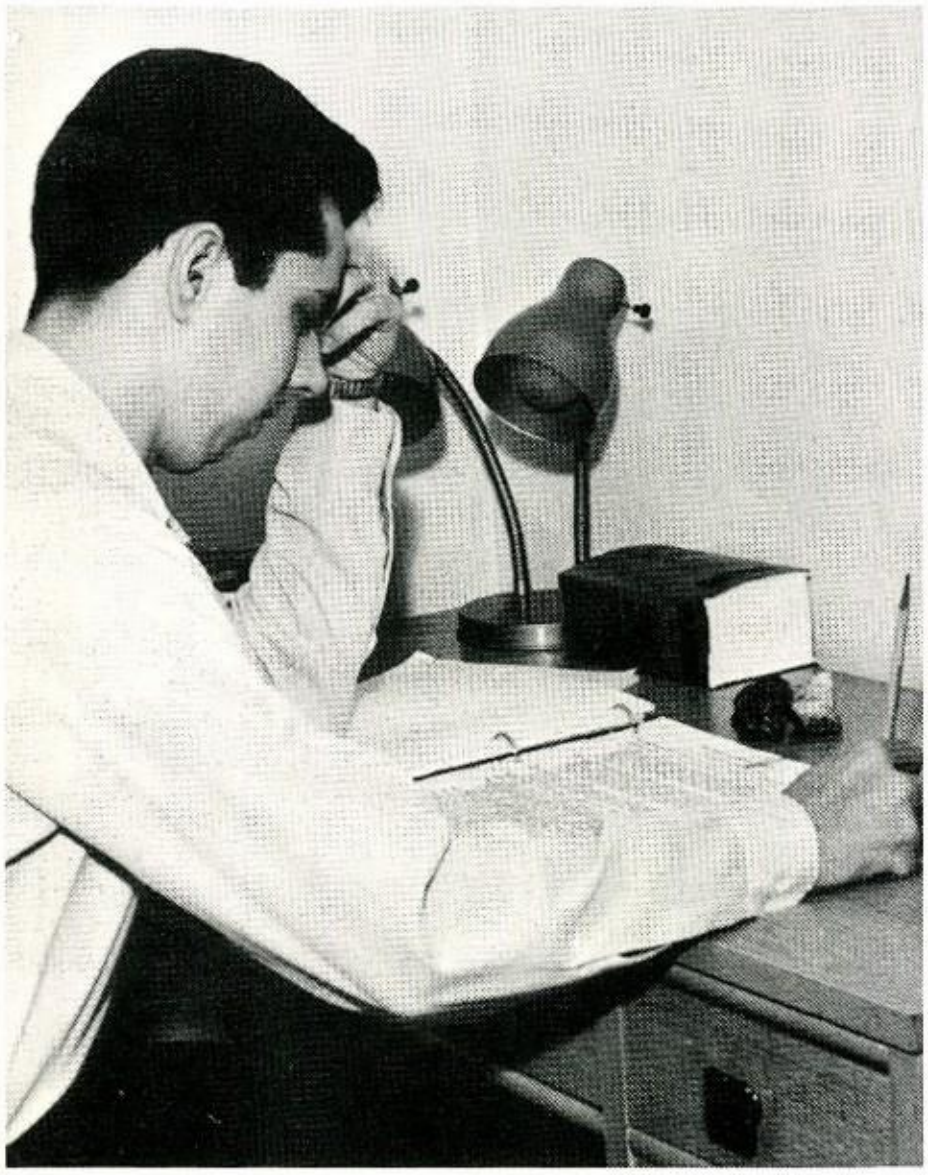
New methods of teaching were in evidence as teachers worked to update their procedures in a continuously changing curriculum. Their duties went beyond the confines of formal instruction as they also accepted the responsibility of projects, field trips and the challenge of guiding students in extra-curricular activities. By taking an active interest in the community, they helped to promote a better understanding between the citizens and the school.



FACULTY

Faculty followed a busy schedule both in school and out



By taking evening graduate courses, teachers increased their knowledge and improved their teaching skills. Mr. LaRose.

Mr. Goehring, a talented musician, served as organist at Park U.P. Church in Beaver and also gave organ lessons.

In addition to her teaching, Mrs. Wasilewski was kept busy with the responsibilities of home and family.

Photography served as both an avocation and a part-time vocation for Mr. Yost.

Throughout the year departmental meetings were held to upgrade the curriculum and correlate the total school program. Clockwise Mrs. McElwain, Mr. Seaburn, Mr. Novalesi, Mr. Melfi, Mr. Lindeman, Mr. Buck, Mr. Winslow.

Sponsoring extra-curricular activities, faculty members spent many long hours in addition to the regular school day. Mr. Freshcorn.

Board of Education

Composed of conscientious, hard working citizens, Riverside's Board of Education assumed the responsibility of selecting school personnel, disbursing funds to meet expenses, and acting on the many questions and problems which arose. As always, the diligent efforts of each member resulted in the maintaining a well-organized school system.

The business of the Northeastern School District was capably handled by Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Grandey.

Administration

Edward C. Shaffer, Supervising Principal

Since Riverside was established, steady growth in student enrollment, modern facilities, and curriculum have been and will always continue to be the goals of Mr. Schaffer. To these outstanding accomplishments can be added a proud sense of tradition. Riverside has taken its place among long established schools, and this has been accomplished in a comparatively short length of time. These glowing tributes to our school shall always be a reflection of Mr. Schaffer's ceaseless efforts.

Leslie H. Marietta, Principal

Charles W. Krepps, Jr., Assistant Principal

Mr. Marietta and Mr. Krepps are two gentlemen without whom our school days certainly would not be as busy and well organized. Always available for consultation, information, or just plain talk, their boundless energy and enthusiasm was an inspiration to all who came in contact with them. Their many accomplishments speak for themselves and their smiling faces and friendly manner helped brighten the days of both students and faculty.

Guidance

S. Robert Marziano, Sr. High Guidance

Arthur J. Cornell, Jr. High Guidance

Every individual needs a stimulus to encourage him in reaching new levels. The guidance counselors attempted to provide this stimulus. In addition to implanting many thoughts in our minds, they have increased the desire in each individual to learn. With this instruction and guidance, students will be better able to comprehend their surroundings and take their place in tomorrow's world.

Secretarial

When there were letters to be written, records to be copied, or information to be looked up, the work was sure to find its way to the school secretaries. Their jobs were always many and varied, and the busy, efficient way in which they went about their duties created a well-kept atmosphere of order that could be felt throughout the school.

Seated: Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Boots. Standing: Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Ferringer.

Today's world with its vast knowledge, many problems, and amazing advancements, is a direct result of the world of yesterday. With this in mind, an emphasis was placed on the study of history. Students were able to study the ancient and recent happenings of the world, along with an insight into economics and problems of democracy, in hopes of preparing each for his individual role in society.

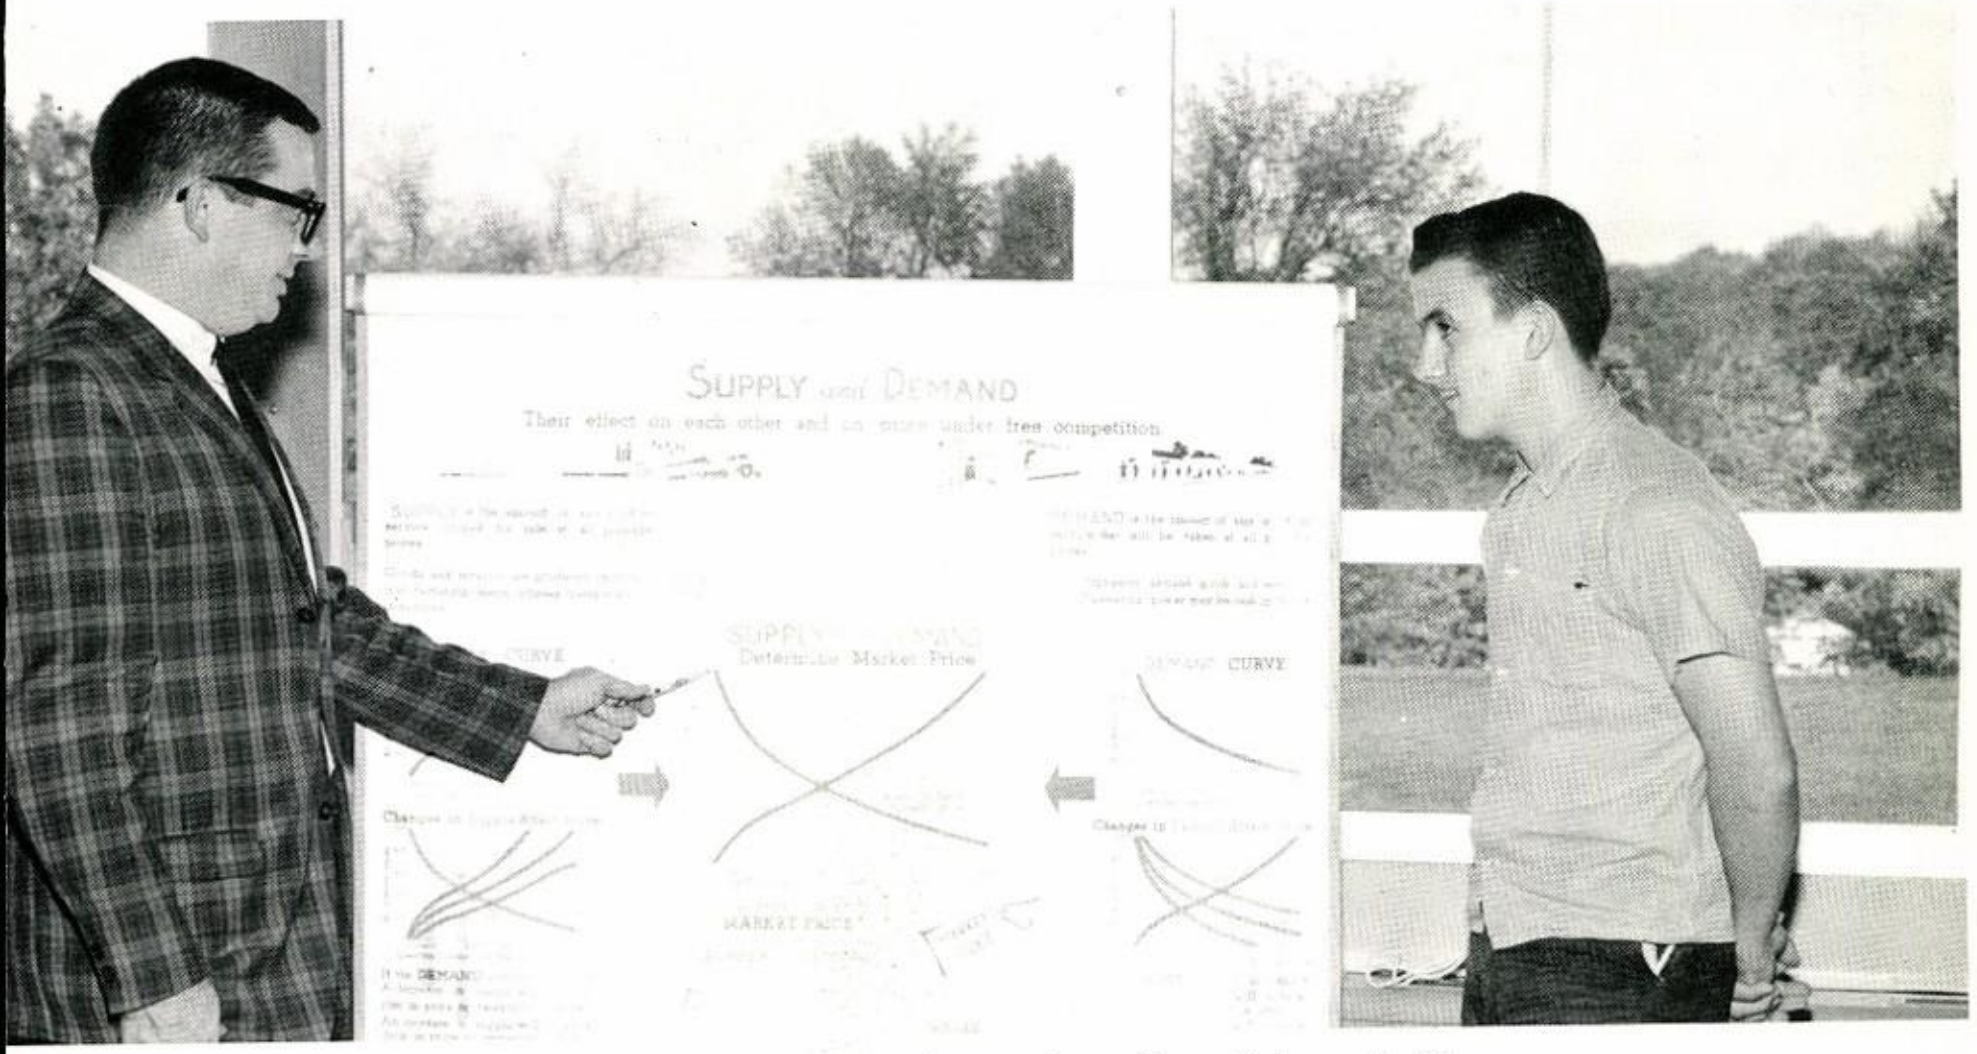
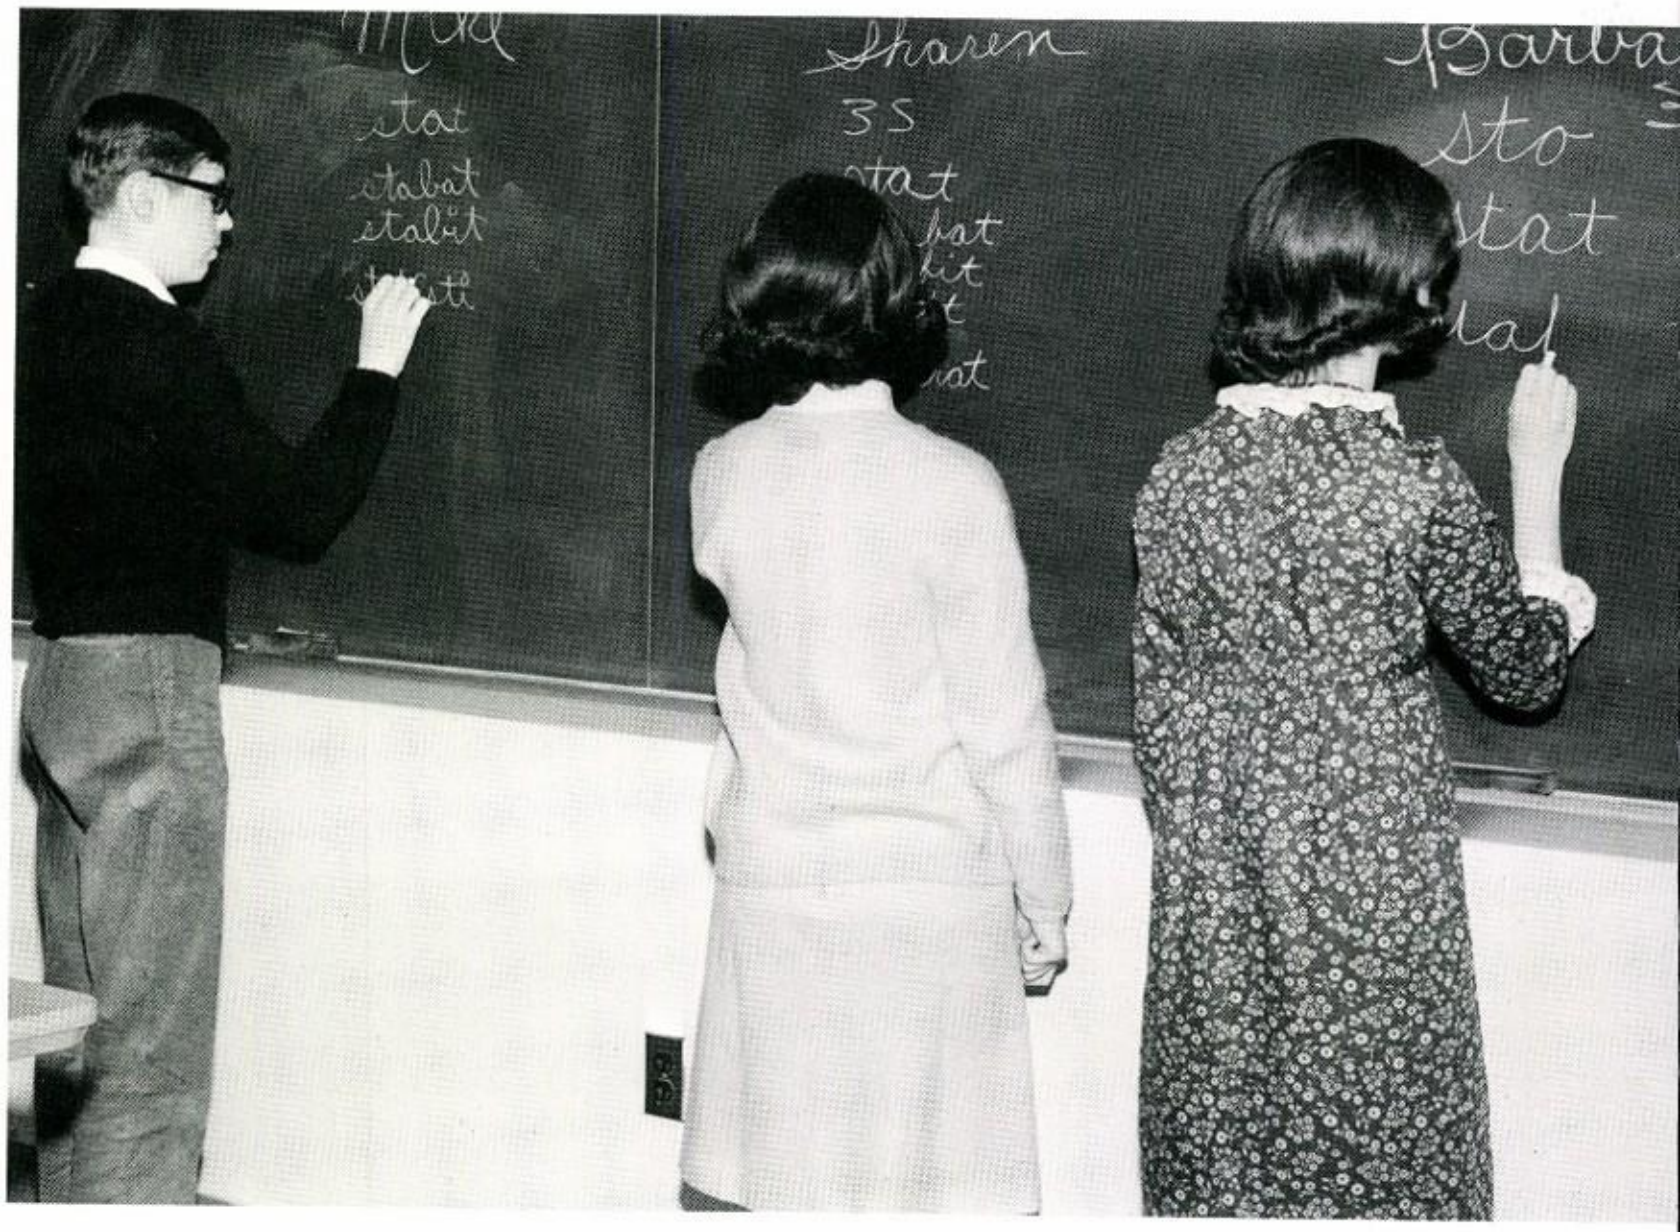
Social Studies



Senior Economics students battled to understand the theory of supply and demand. Mr. Lindeman and L. Barge.

Foreign Languages

Both the modern and classical languages were well represented at Riverside. Through French, Spanish, and Latin, students obtained a varied background in their choice of languages. By means of the language laboratory teachers were able to present a thorough program and help the individual student with his abilities in pronunciation, comprehension, and basic skills.



Learning the conjugation of new verbs was the never-ending task of Latin I students. M. Pflug, S. Williard, B. Senior.

Mr. Marziano, head of the math department, solves another problem.

Mathematics

Mathematics is called the language of science, but it is much more than this. Certainly the scientist working complicated formulas and equations requires an extreme knowledge of advanced mathematics, but what of the farmer planning his crops, or the housewife doing her shopping. Isn't mathematics just as necessary to them? The math department at Riverside provided courses suited to everyone and every career. Courses ranging from industrial and business math, to algebra, geometry, and advanced mathematics gave students a chance to plan their future, giving them the background necessary in what is not only the language of science, but the language of everyday life.

English term papers were a major project that sent many students to the library during study halls. L. Sockaci, P. Pesce, J. Main, S. Miller.

Reading Shakespeare and Whitman was only a part of English. Students also conjugated verbs, studied vocabulary words, learned correct punctuation, and wrote countless themes and essays. After school the English Club presented book reviews and films. The club also introduced a new publication, The Troubador, a literary magazine which presented stories and poems written by Riverside students.

Reading

Seventh and eighth grade students were kept quite busy during their Reading classes. The SRA Reading Laboratory, which students used twice a week, helped build reading skills and comprehension. Vocabulary words and rate builders were also included in the SRA. The main purpose of Scope, a literary magazine, was to interest potential drop-outs in reading. The students also read stories and poems, listened to records, and made book reports.

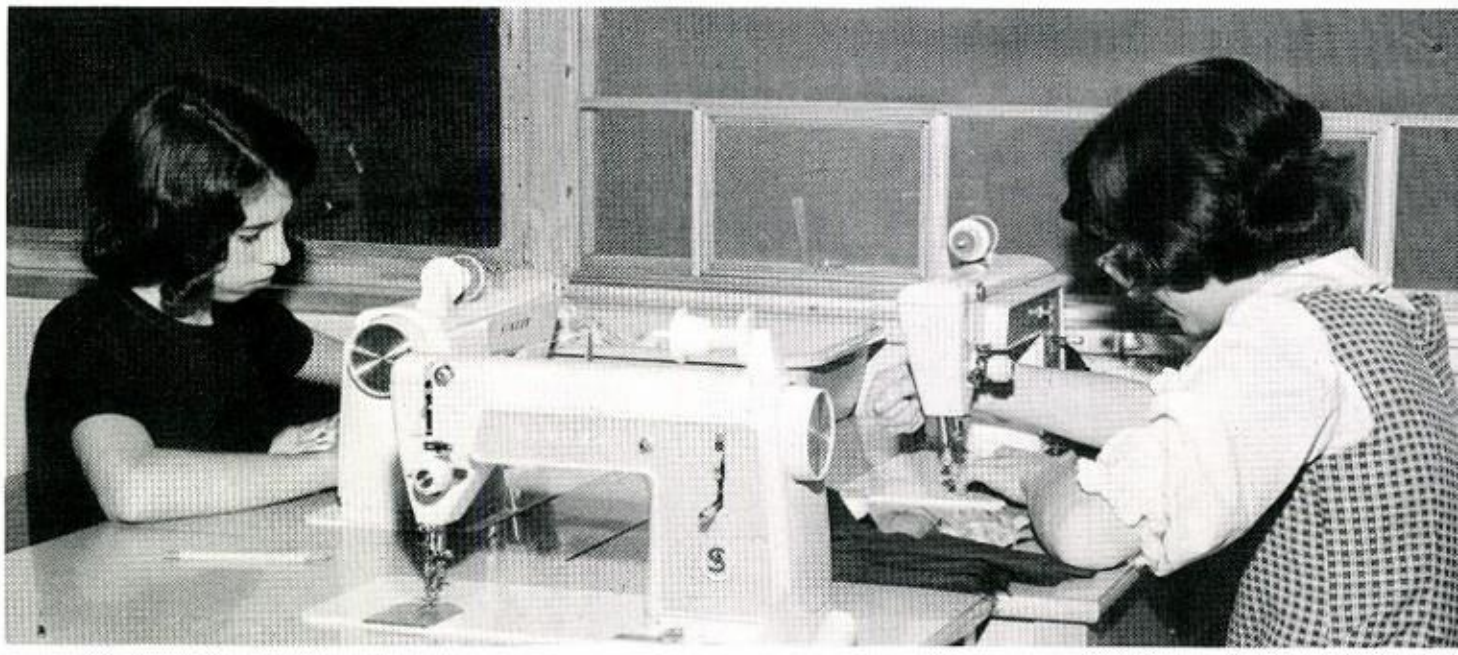
Miss Blair gives encouragement to A. Welsh as he begins work with the SRA Reading Laboratory.

Home Economics

Learning to someday be successful housewives is what many Riverside girls have been learning through their Home Economics classes. They study home decoration as well as child care and the many skills that accompany it. Home management and cooking, along with sewing and pattern design will help transform the girls into the homemakers of tomorrow.



Practical Arts classes exposed junior high girls to the skills necessary in sewing, cooking and general home management.

Industrial Arts

Various projects were made by the boys who took Industrial Arts. The two main areas were wood and metal. After careful planning, the boys began the patient process of constructing their designs. All steps being done carefully and exactly, they had good-looking, as well as useful, finished products. Not only did they enjoy their work, but they gained skills that will be of valuable use in many future situations.

Junior High students found enjoyment and gained experience in the metal shop. Mr. Mack.

"In this way, Joe, a static charge is built up on this metal globe . . ." Mr. LaRose and J. Miloser study the Van de Graaff generator in 9th grade Science class.

Science

As long as there are questions yet unsolved, there will be men who will wonder and search for their answers; but, to find these answers there must first be an understanding of the questions. And it is here, in high school, that the foundation of the search for understanding is built. Through the various courses offered in general sciences, biology, chemistry, and physics, there is gained both a realization of the answers already found and an association with the questions that remain unanswered. Thus, the basic knowledge is acquired that will be so important in the questionable future.

Girls took part in one phase of the health course, first aid, by practicing on fellow students. M. Horner, K. Evans, C. Allison, N. Agostinelli.

Health

Hygiene was only one of many phases covered in the health classes. Students were given a chance to "learn by doing" as they practiced first aid on fellow students. Bone structure and muscles were studied with the use of models. Filmstrips and discussions also added to the study of diseases, vitamins, and correct health habits. Although the course was a required one, students found it not only interesting but helpful.

Physical Education

Brawn and Brains. Both of these were needed to excel in physical education classes. A Riverside student learned to co-ordinate his mind with his muscles. An outstanding addition to the physical education department was the swimming pool. The boys developed their bodies through water basketball, while girls learned to use their minds and bodies in synchronized swimming. Basketball, volleyball, and many other games helped develop co-ordination in both boys and girls and advance the overall physical fitness program.

Library

"Another important point of the Dewey Decimal System is . . . " Mrs. Huling explains library procedure to 7th grade Library Science class.

Answers to many questions were found in the vast resources of the library. In addition, it provided a quiet place to study and a new and ever expanding selection of books and reference materials. Library Science classes taught students how to use the library properly. However, students were not the only individuals to benefit from the library. The professional room was put to good use by teachers working during their preparation periods.

Art

Various media, techniques, and styles are practiced and developed in the classes of both junior and senior high art students. Their efforts are brought to the attention of the student body by means of seasonal displays and the annual art exhibit. This year's department was improved through the expansion of staff and facilities.

Music

Developing culture in the minds of students was the job that was undertaken by the music department. In music appreciation classes students studied the life of composers and the era in which they wrote. They also listened to compositions written by great composers representing our different cultures and ways of life. Thus, the students learned of the value and pleasure that can be derived from music.

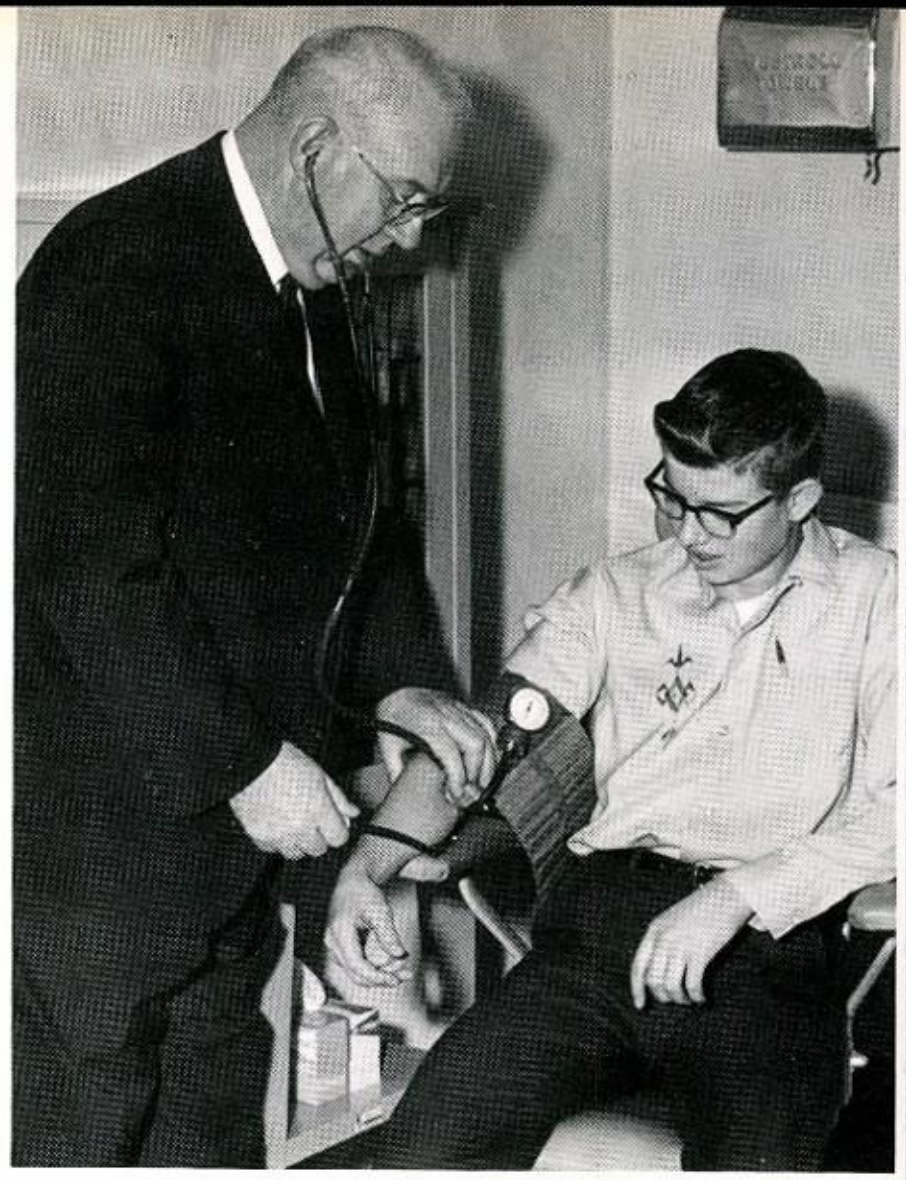
Commercial

Business is an important part of our society and many students at Riverside have gained the preparation needed to fulfill the many jobs and opportunities awaiting in the commercial field. Those who took advantage of the program available were offered instruction in all phases of the skills necessary in the business world. The commercial department was just one example of a capable staff, interested students, and knowledge combining to produce a background for future work.

Medical Service

Bloody noses, broken bones, fainting spells, and upset stomachs were some of the ailments which were remedied by the health department under the fine supervision of Mrs. Maxine Kalcevic, R.N. Offering the best possible care for these ailments was only one of her many tasks for she also helped to administer eye and ear tests, physicals, and dental exams. Dr. McPherson, physician, and Dr. Frkuska, dentist, completed the staff.



A physical examination was given to every member of the junior class. Dr. McPherson and R. Fogel.

Driver Education

Driver Education is more than just learning to stay on your own side of the highway. Knowing all about a car seems to come naturally to boys but under Mr. Ellenich's fine supervision even girls eventually learned to change a tire. Other valuable aids to students were classroom discussions and films, which were included in this program of thirty hours of classroom study and six hours of behind-the-wheel driving.

All juniors were required to take Driver Education which consisted of behind-the-wheel driving in addition to the classroom instruction. G. Paul and Mr. Ellenich.

Custodians

"The heat is off in my room!" The call goes out and is promptly and efficiently answered by the maintenance staff at Riverside. Everything from loose door knobs to furnace problems were repaired and kept in prime working order. And yet, repairs were not the only jobs which confronted the custodial staff. Many hours were devoted to keeping the building dusted, waxed, and polished in addition to remedying any and all unforseen emergencies.

Cafeteria

Providing inviting meals and a sparkling clean cafeteria for well-over 1,000 students and faculty members was quite a problem, but the cafeteria staff at Riverside found the secret to solve this problem. Through a variety of tempting meals planned and prepared with skill and care, the lunch periods at Riverside were looked forward to with anticipation by all.

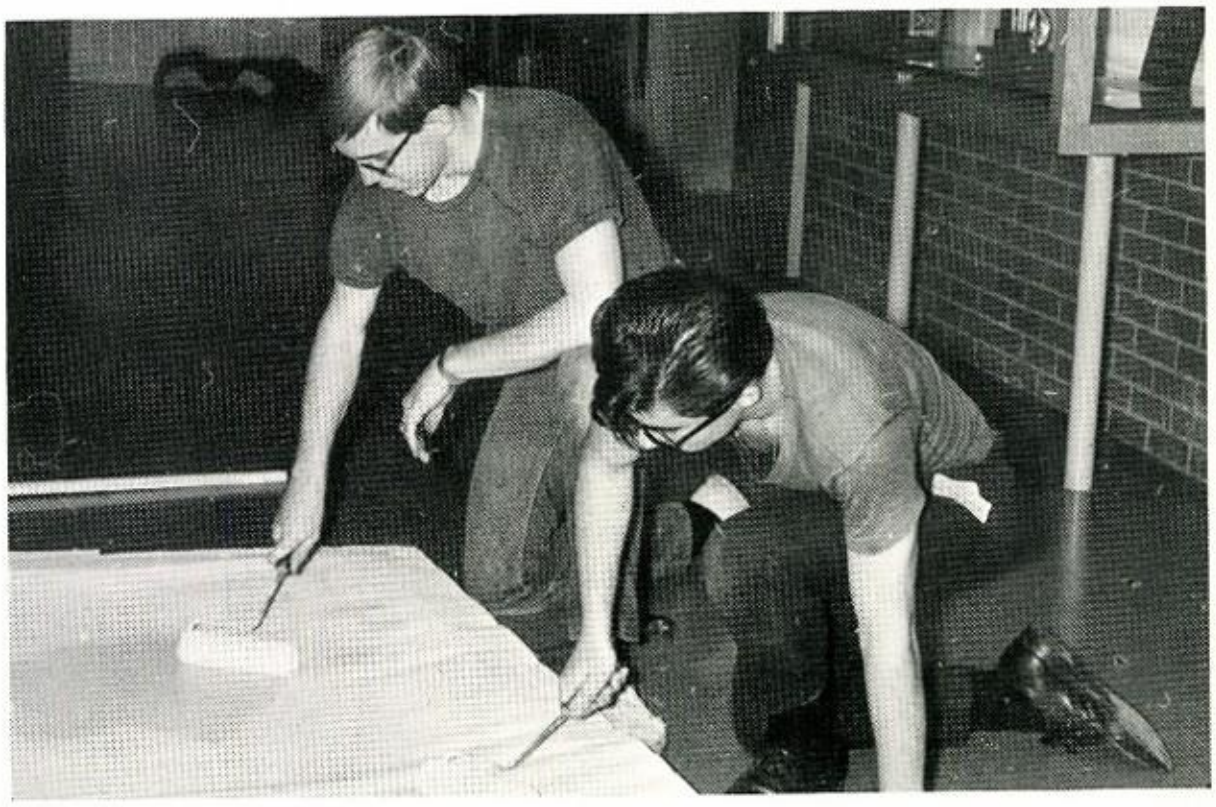
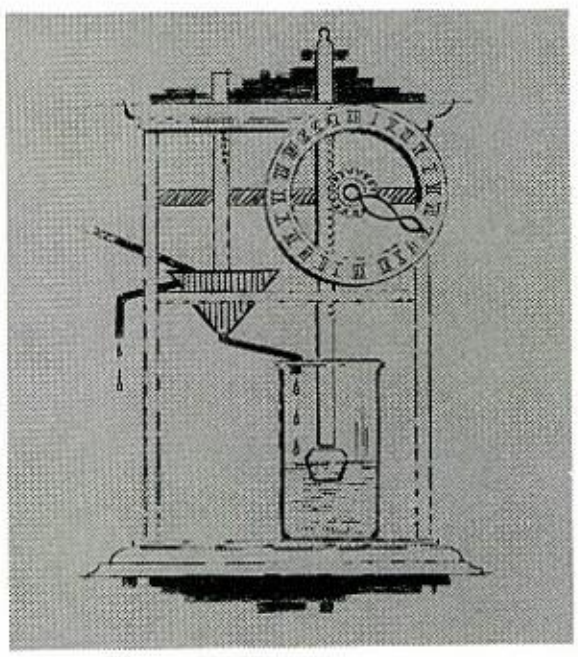
Through a diversified activities program students found an outlet for their talents and interests. The program provided an opportunity for knowledge, leadership and talent in addition to a chance for fun and friendship. Running the gamut from community projects to dramatic presentations, it was an easy task for all students to find activities which suited their varied interests.





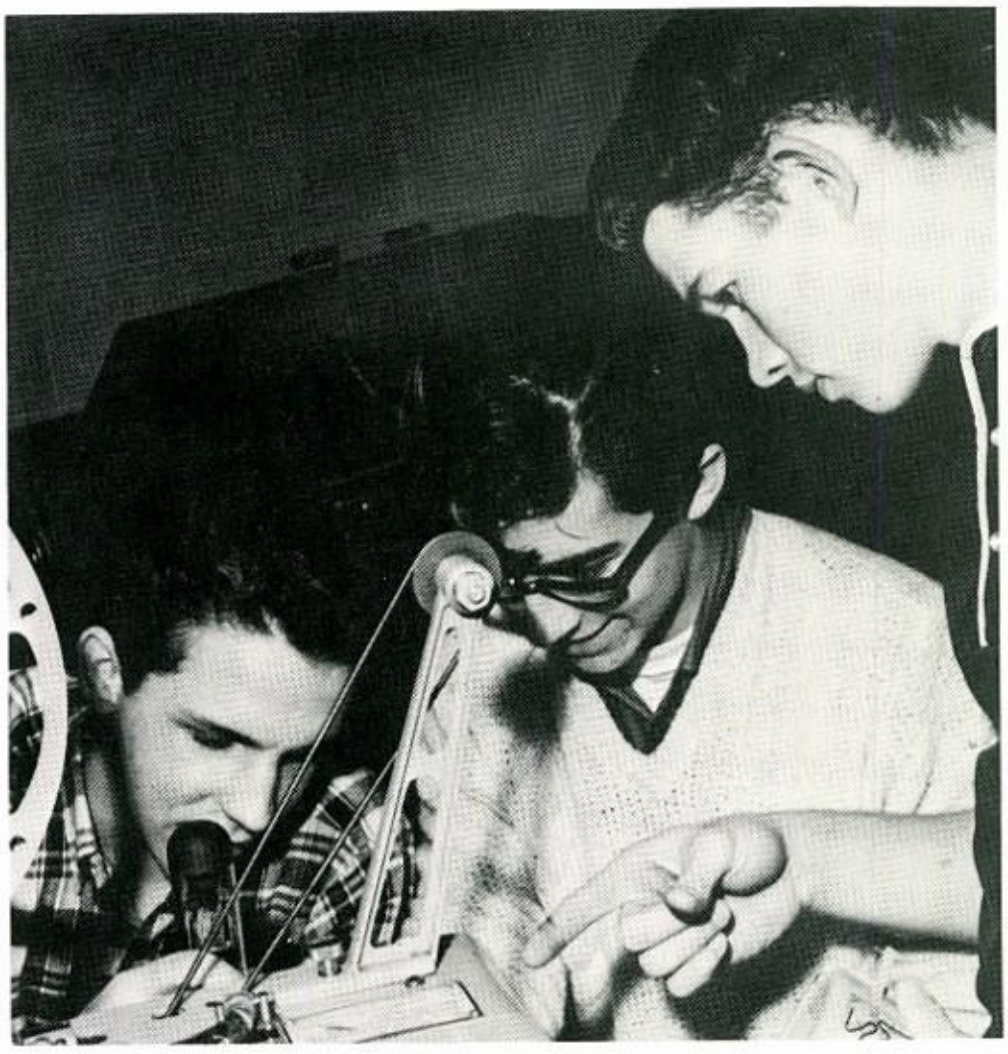
ACTIVITIES

Activities provided a variety of outlets

Couples at the Christmas Dance enjoyed music provided by Rocky Ricco and his group.

Passers-by beheld the Christmas Spirit exhibited in the Electric Club's display.

for energetic and creative students



Showing films for various classes was one of the main functions of the Electric Club. G. Potts, J. Mesko, E. Adams.

Teacher Appreciation Week brought many unexpected and delightful surprises to the members of Riverside's faculty. C. Hessler, Mrs. Karnes.

Providing an enjoyable assembly, the Junior Thespians displayed their many talents in Grandma Fixes Things.

Riverside's Student Council provided not only an outlet for student opinion, but was also prominent in both school and community activities. Service projects such as the United Fund Drive and the annual clothing and food collections were important functions this year, along with the operation of the bookstore, furnishing of busses for away basketball games, and handling plans for a future foreign exchange student. Our student government had the honor of hosting the Mid-Western District Student Council Convention.

Senior Tri Hi-Y

Organizing service projects was the main purpose of the Senior Tri-Hi-Y. The whole student body helped in collecting old toys before Christmas. These toys were then repaired and cleaned by the Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y Clubs, and just before Christmas they were delivered to needy families in the area. In March two delegates were chosen to represent our Tri-Hi-Y Club at the Mock United Nations held in Harrisburg. While there, they voted on proposals and participated in assemblies and general sessions similar to those of the real United Nations.

Senior Hi-Y

Riverside's Senior Hi-Y associated all the standards of Christain development with sportsmanship and school spirits. It gave the boys a code of clean speech, good sportsmanship, scholarship, and honesty to follow all their lives. In addition, club members also planned school and community projects and supported an intramural sports program.

National Honor Society

Because only students who had exhibited outstanding qualities in scholarship, leadership, service, and character were selected to become members, the National Honor Society was an organization of which all who belonged were honored to be a part. Induction of new members and sponsoring of their annual movie-dance were just two of many activities which kept Riverside's chapter active. The induction ceremonies, held in February of each year, admitted a certain percentage of the Junior and Senior classes. This inspiring program gave to future candidates a standard and a goal to work toward.

New members were inducted at a formal ceremony on February 23.

Future Nurses Club

Aiding young adults in deciding their careers was one of the main purposes of the Future Nurses of America. Members took tours of the many hospitals and also studied the many types of nursing and the type of schooling that accompanies each. Working in the Health Suite in both Riverside Elementary and the High School helped the members experience what the life of a nurse is like. Working in the volunteer program of Beaver Valley General Hospital also proved a valuable experience.

"I'm sorry but Mrs. Kalcevic isn't in right now. May I take a message." J. Stratton.

By working as hospital volunteers, Future Nurses Club members gained valuable experience in preparing for their careers.

Senior Girls Athletic Association participated in many activities during the year while under the new supervision of Miss King. Their activities included a playday at Slippery Rock State College involving 5 other schools and participating with schools in track and field. The club also went bowling as a group at Park Lanes and sponsored a dance in the fall. A swim-team was started during the year, and they appeared in the water show to the theme of "Rainbow Rhapsody." The year ended by having their annual G.A.A. Banquet in the spring.

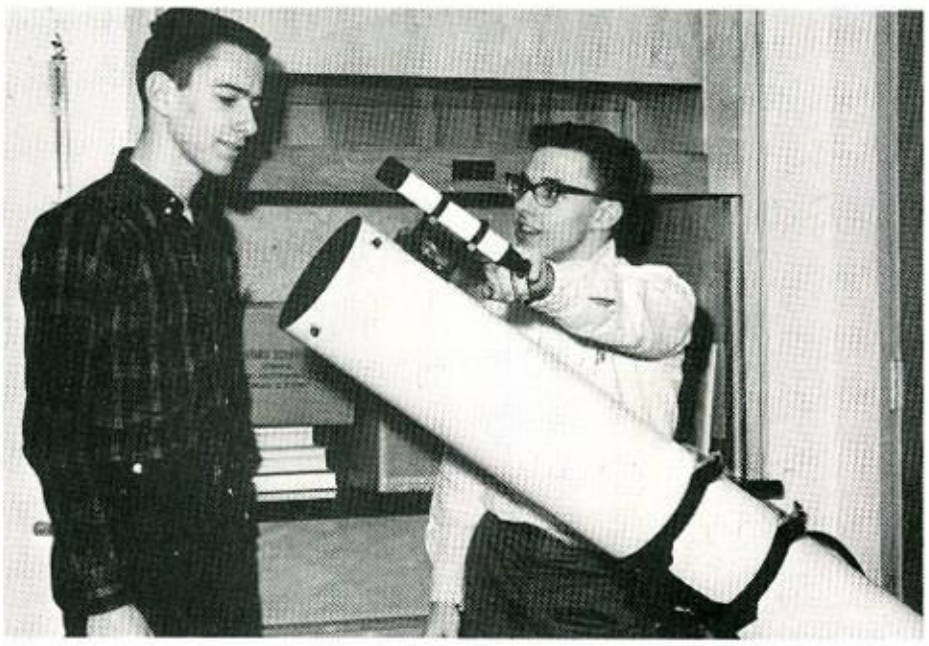
Fossil hunts, star gazes, and trips to places such as the Allegheny Observatory provided interesting material for the Science Society's monthly field trips during the year. Stimulating both an interest and an understanding of science, the society strived to answer old questions and create new ones in the minds of the members, and did so through field trips, movies, and its regular monthly meetings.



"The light is then reflected up the tube and converges on another mirror and . . ." J. Thomas and T. Caldwell discuss the operation of the telescope.

Aerodynamics were studied by members while on tour at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Miss Mahaffey demonstrated the art of making attractive packages to club members. D. Richter and S. Higgins.

Participating in the Christmas food drive and sponsoring a "Teacher's Coffee Break," and Good Grooming Week occupied much of the time of the Future Homemakers of America members. Meetings were oriented to give members the essentials of becoming efficient homemakers. Members studied table serving, child care, and the many essentials of becoming a housewife.

For those with the capacity for patience and planning, chess provided an interesting pastime. In addition, the annual tournament held by the Chess Club at Riverside gave them a chance to exhibit their skills. Along with the tournament, a school dance, and regular meetings; many members showed special interest by building their own chess sets at home and playing chess by mail in their spare time. This was the first year the club was recognized, and it was a most successful one.

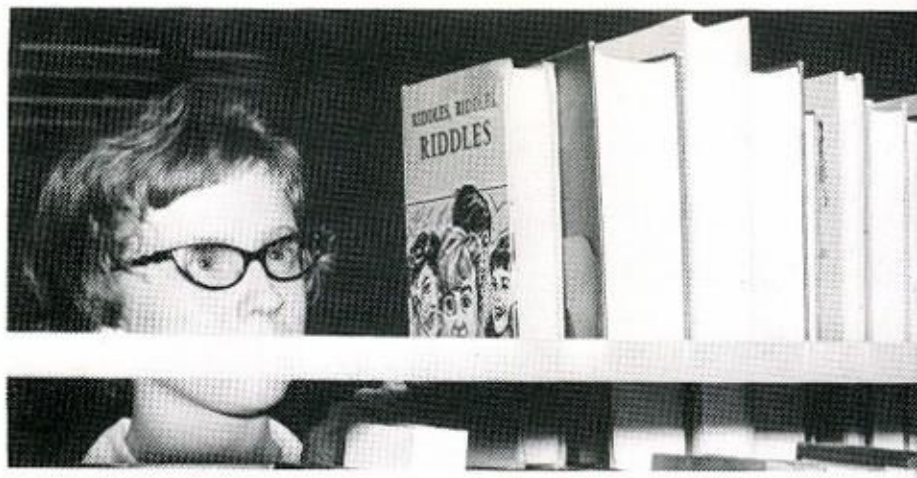
Future Teachers of America

Reading, writing, and arithmetic were taught by seniors during Teaching Career Month. This was the first year that seniors were given the opportunity to teach in the Junior High. Similarly, the officers and senior members assisted in the Pre-School Clinic held in May. The FTA was also responsible for the spring edition of the FTA Newsletter which was sent to forty other FTA Clubs in the Midwestern District.

Library Club

Under the direction of Mrs. Huling, the Library Club offered many services to the library. Some of the duties performed by student librarians were to read the shelves, and help students locate needed information. The annual book fair was held the first week in November sponsored by the Library Club.



One of the jobs of a student librarian was to "read" the shelves – a job which kept the books in correct order. D. Fisher.

Electric Club

Performing many worthwhile projects during the year was the purpose of Mr. Barbish's Electric Club. The club, which consisted of seventy-four boys and five girls began the year by holding a dance. At Christmas they erected a display in front of the school and throughout the year they helped with plays, assemblies, and the operation and distribution of visual aid equipment.

National Thespians

All forms and phases of drama were a part of Riverside's troupe of the National Thespian Society. The presentation of two productions yearly, along with induction ceremonies, entertaining at community activities and various organizations, and planning entertainment for monthly meetings, kept members interested and active. Something new this year which was included in the program of the group was the production of an all school musical.

Senior Art Club

Stimulation and development of a sense of art and beauty was the challenge that the Senior Art Club offered its members. By creating, the members were able to develop their talent along with their understanding and appreciation of art. Field trips were taken to several industries and professional exhibitions, and lectures given at the meetings helped vary their program. The main highlight that the club strived for was the preparation of the annual spring exhibit in which every type of art could be found, from sketches to clay sculptures.

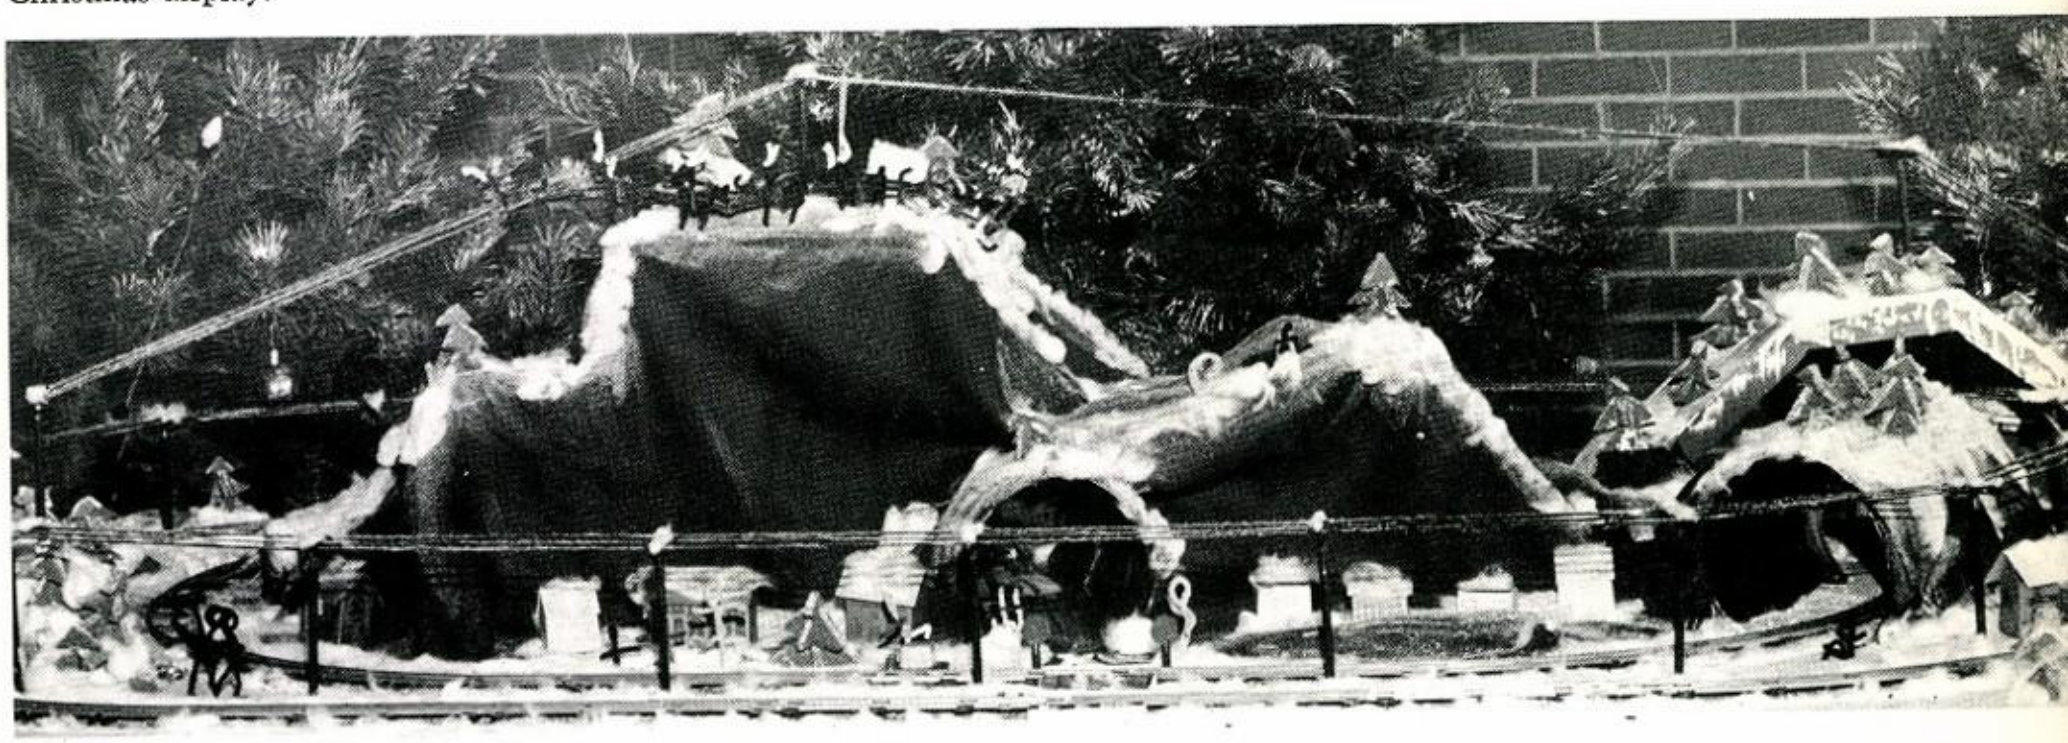
One of the major projects of the Art Club was to plan and erect this wintery Christmas display.



Debate Team

Under the fine supervision of Mrs. Wasilewski the Debate Club completed its second year of existence at Riverside. The club's activities included visiting several other schools to hear debates, meeting in activity periods and having debates among its members. Their main objective was to subdue the problems of on the spot thinking and to speak fluently before an audience. In the future the club has plans to travel to other schools so that they may have a chance to take part in inter-school competition.

Mimeographing tests for teachers was one of the jobs performed by the Business Club. A. Chuhra and S. Thompson.

Newly formed this past year, the Business Club was both helpful to other organizations and busy with its own activities. The group consisted of interested seniors who had participated in some phase of the business curriculum, the specific requirement being one year of typing. Money making projects included typing and mimeographing for various groups and individuals.

Varsity R Club

All athletes who had earned letters in varsity sports at Riverside were eligible to join the Varsity "R" Club. During the year, the club held fund raising projects and also sold refreshments at basketball games in order to provide the money necessary to honor our athletes with letters and jackets. Their most outstanding project was the Halloween Hoe-Down which was highlighted by games, a cider-drinking contest, and a record hop. Leading the school in baseball, basketball, cross country, and track, the athletes were a group of which the school had good reason to be proud.

Varsity R

Princess and Court

One hundred couples listened tensely as the candidates for Varsity "R" Princess were introduced. And then Judy Pensy's dream was fulfilled when she was crowned Princess for 1966. After her crowning she reigned over "Sleighbell Symphony." Judy's court, consisting of seniors, included Pam Hysell, Andrea Kross, Donna Marr, and Judy Stratton. The annual Christmas dance was sponsored this year by the cheerleaders. They chose the name and carried out the theme in their decorations — a red and white sleigh, in which the princess was crowned, added the effect of Christmas.

Our lovely Princess and her attendants. A. Kross, P. Hysell, J. Pensy, D. Marr, J. Stratton.

Junior High Student Council

Working closely with the Senior High Student Council's various projects was only one capacity of the Junior High Student Council. Raising and lowering the flag was a responsibility of two members of the council. A major project of the organization was to increase interest in the junior high basketball games. This was done by selling tickets in the homerooms and providing a schedule for each room in the school.

Junior Tri Hi-Y

Junior Tri-Hi-Y gave the junior high girls a chance to meet and work both in and for a better Christian environment. Besides giving two teas, one in honor of their parents and another for their teachers, they made bibs for the children's home in New Brighton as their Christmas service project. The club showed an interest in sports, too, as seen in their participation in the Spring Sports Spectacular at Butler.

Junior Hi-Y

Teaching members to work and worship together toward a better world was the purpose of the Junior Hi-Y. Under the direction of Mr. Cyphert and Mr. Downing, the fifty-two boys enjoyed many activities which helped them develop physically as well as mentally. The highlight of the year was the Junior Hi-Y Sports Spectacular held April 2. Members also attended the Central West District YMCA Youth Council early in the school year.

Teen Talk discussions led to not only interesting but didactic training for many Junior High boys.

Junior Art Club

Primary interests of the Junior Art Club were learning the value of art and preparing themselves for future membership in the Senior Art Club. Members prepared many beautiful displays for our school and took part in the annual exhibit. Field trips and lectures were also enjoyed by the members, making this a very active club at Riverside.

Junior G.A.A.

With a total of 130 girls the Junior Girls Athletic Association helped to heighten the interest of junior high girls in sports such as basketball, volley ball, soccer and many more. The club was under the direction of Miss Smalstig and during the year their activities included a roller skating party, a bowling night, and an after school swim. From participating in these sports, the girls developed better sportsmanship, co-ordination, and a wider range of ability in sports activities.

Junior Historians

Newly formed this year, the Junior Historians performed various projects and services for the good of our community. One of their first projects was to clean up the Revolutionary War Cemetery in Marion Township. They also had two field trips during the school year. In the fall the Junior Historians toured the Shippingsport Atomic Plant and Old Economy, and this spring they visited Gettysburg Battlefield area.

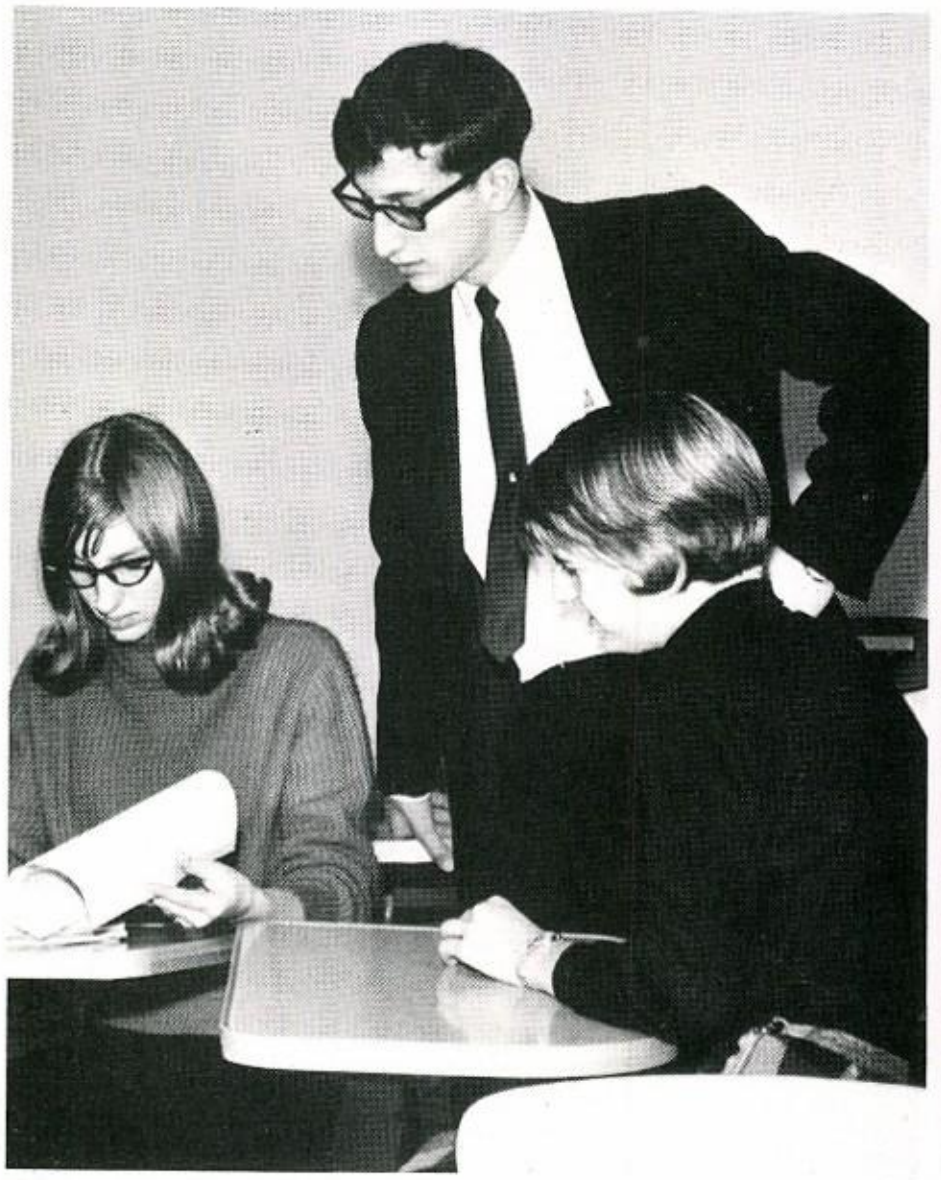
English Club

One of the newer clubs at Riverside was the English Club. Although the club had been organized near the end of the 1964-65 school year, this was the first complete year the club had been active. The first project with which the English Club was concerned was developing student interest in Riverside's first literary magazine, the Troubador. Because all students were members of the organization, the English Club did not have regularly scheduled meetings. However, it did provide meetings held during the evening. These programs consisted of various guest speakers who presented a variety of topics which were both interesting and informative to all members.

President Roberta Sokoloski leads an after-school meeting as the English Club plans for future projects.

Members of the English Club hoped to encourage good grammar by sponsoring Good Grammar Week. T. Hupp and J. Johnston.



Many hours of hard work contributed to the success of Riverside's first literary magazine, The Troubadour. R. Sokoloski, Sponsor Mr. Oliastro and C. Boots.

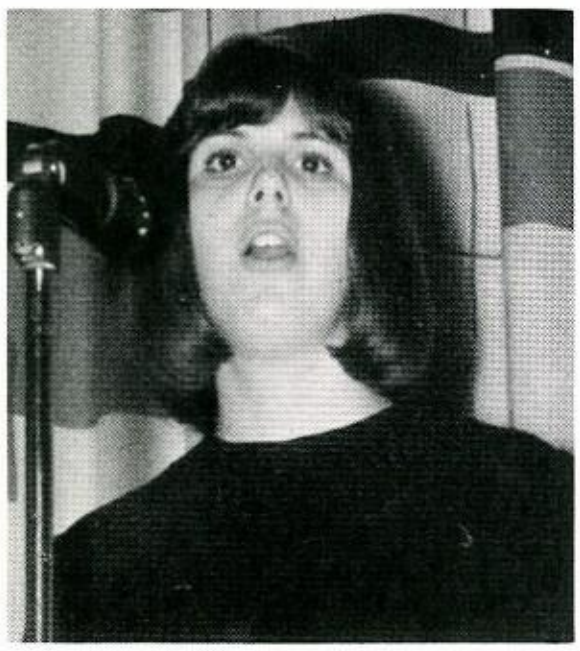
Carrousel

Another success and the largest venture of the class of 1966 was "Carrousel," the junior-senior prom presented on May 21, 1965. It was a fine example of what can be accomplished when good ideas, planning, time and cooperation are combined and used. Each member of each of the various committees proved to be invaluable as even the smallest jobs were quite important. The gay effects carried out the theme and the many hours of hard work proved to be well worth the effort.

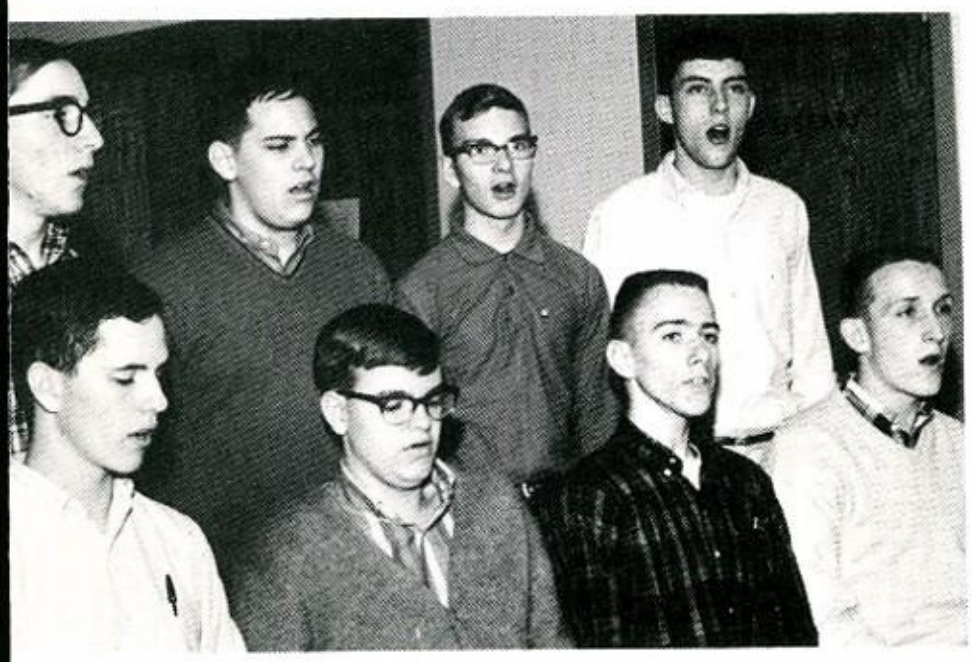
Reigning over "Carrousel" was Prom Queen Kandy Wehman and her court. D. Kirkwood, N. Kasparek, P. Walker, J. Kraynak, K. Wehman, J. Stratton, J. Pensy, P. Hysell.

After their many hours of hard work the juniors enjoy a pleasant evening at the prom. R. Ott, N. Weber, C. Shaffer, S. Kirkwood.

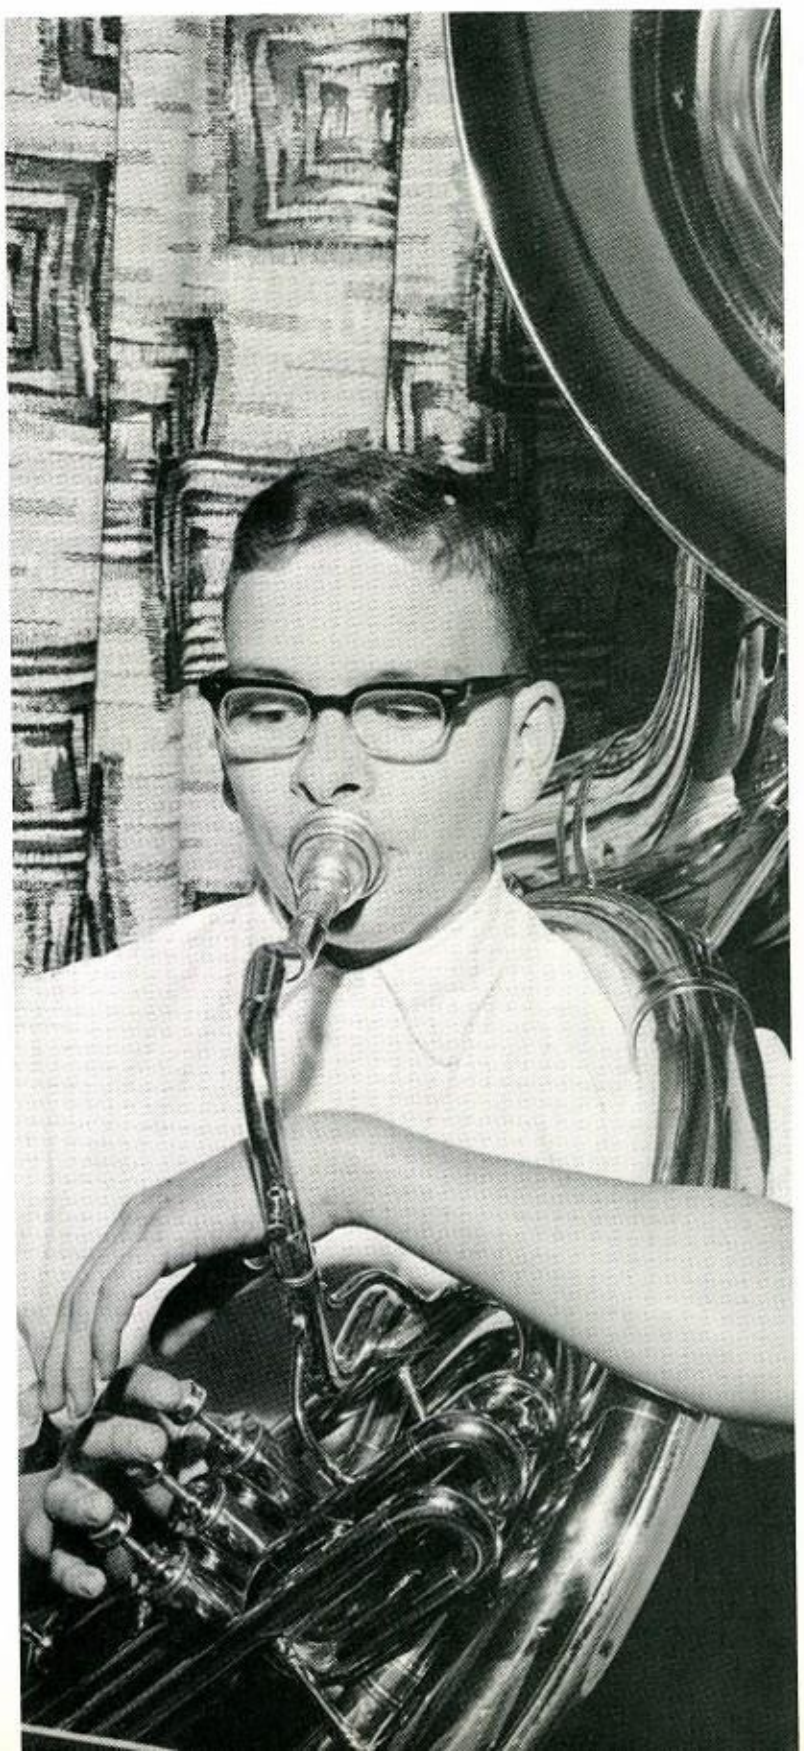
The carrousel receives finishing touches before the big night. M. Canich, R. Bales.

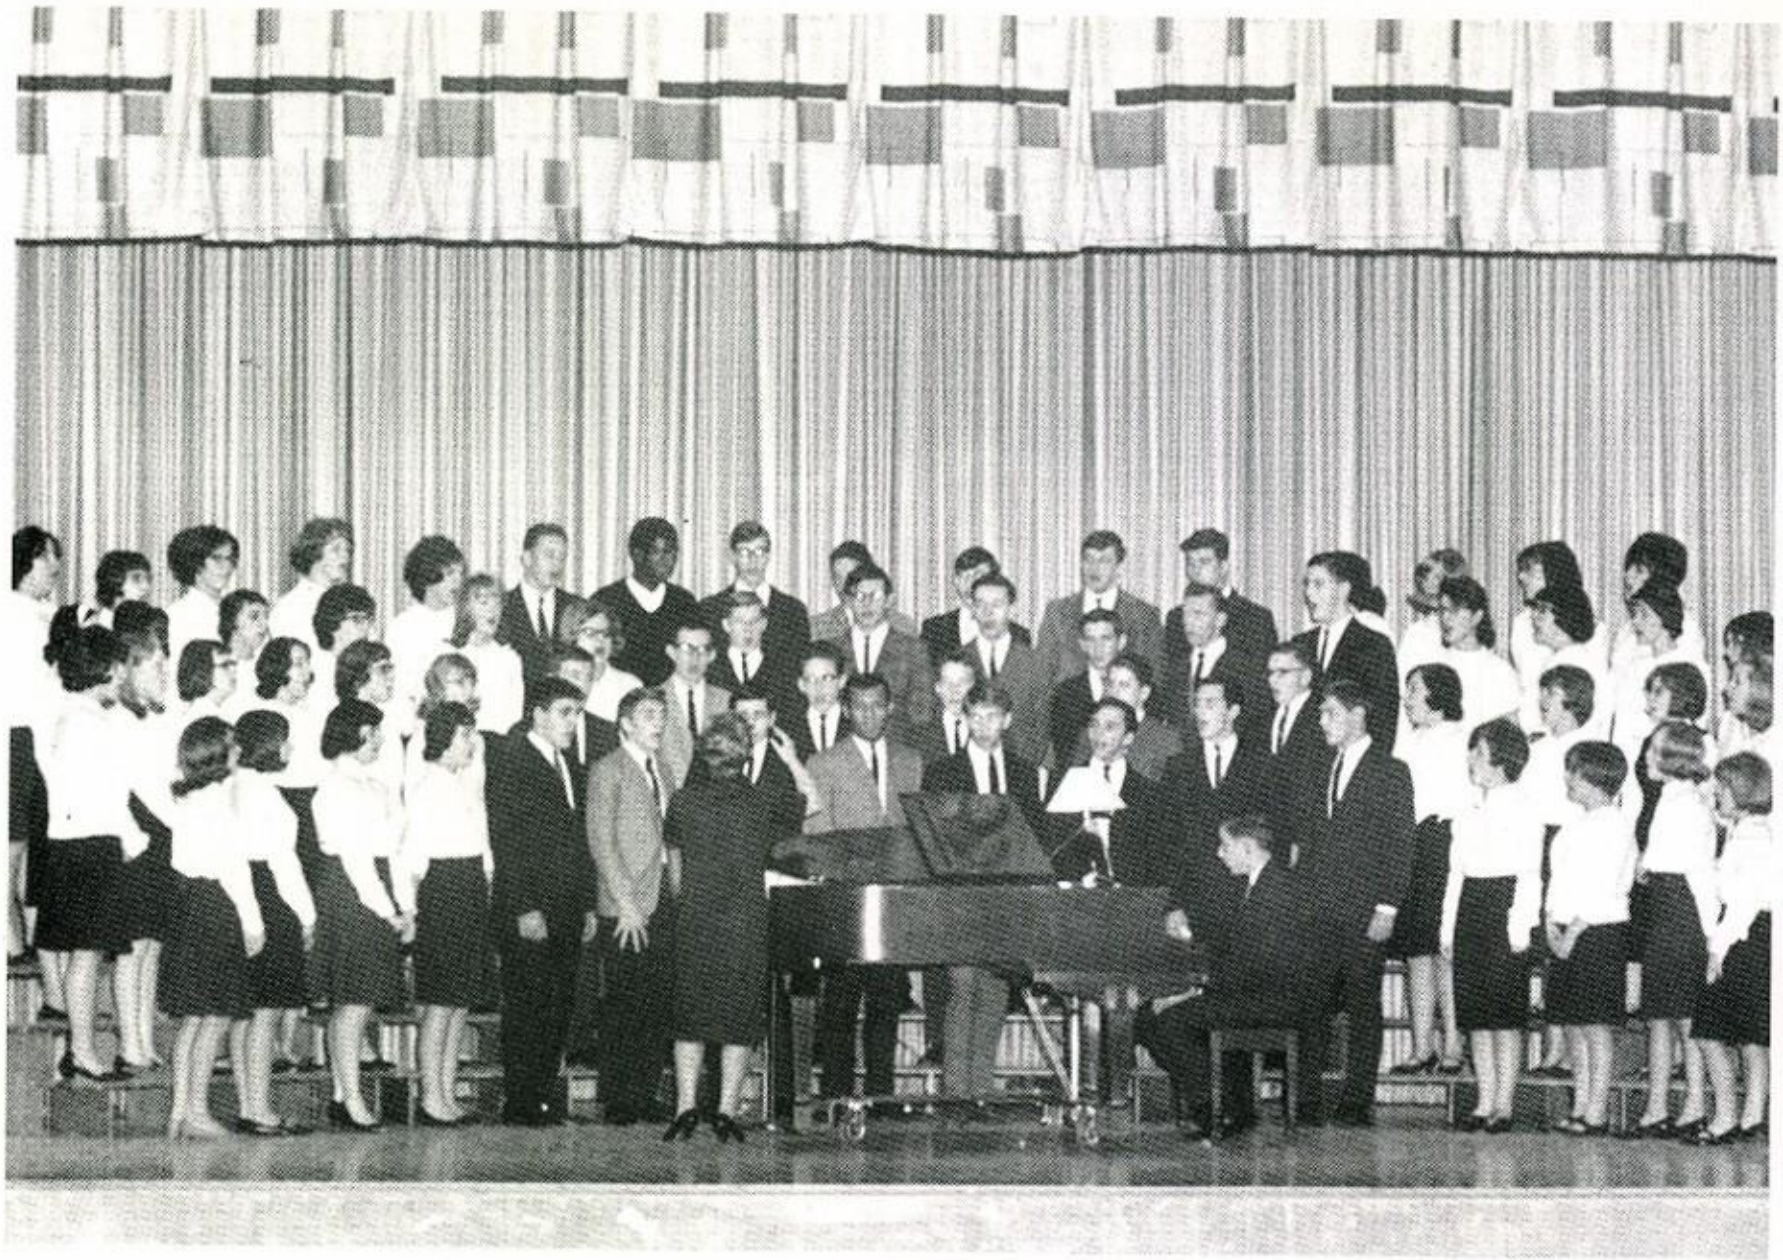


MUSIC



Through the ceaseless efforts of both the instructors and students, Riverside's music department continued its steady pattern of growth and improvement. Constantly striving for perfection, both the choir and band utilized much time and toil in preparation for their respective presentations, which were well appreciated by the student body and constituted a source of community pride.





The Mixed Chorus combined with the Wind Ensemble to present a memorable Christmas Assembly.

Marches, popular music, and classical compositions were all mastered by the musicians of the Riverside band. The marching band has a record of which to be proud for honors and awards were received at every parade attended. Along with local events, the band traveled to many vicinities outside of the immediate area, always representing its school in the very best manner. The concert band was also active and well known for its outstanding quality. As a result of long hours of practice, the annual spring concert was another success.

Chosen from the Panther Band to represent Riverside in the Midwestern Band Festival at Slippery Rock were T. Nevin, T. Martin, P. Osborne, J. Koenig, H. Young.

Band members had a chance to further interests in music by joining the Wind Ensemble. Under the direction of Mr. Brooks these band members met two extra periods every week to practice. They exhibited their musical abilities by performing at the Christmas Assembly, the Senior Class Play, and at various other activities.

Junior High Band

Most of the recognition throughout the year goes to Riverside's fine band, but the Junior High Band deserves a word of praise, too. They will fill the places of the graduating band members and they are counted on to uphold the band's proud tradition. They had a chance to show their skill through performances at the high school concerts; and this year, for the first time, they also practiced marching.

Mixed Chorus

Consisting of sophomores' juniors, and seniors, the Mixed Chorus very well proved that music is the common language. The chorus offered a variety of pleasing songs on many occasions and helped to create the spirit of the season at the Christmas Concert. The finale for the chorus members was the annual spring concert. They found hard work was the only price that can be paid for a fine performance, and their results were enjoyed by many people of the district.

Concert Choir

Anyone near the music department during fourth period on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday could hear the diligent rehearsals of the Concert Choir. Under the direction of Mrs. Mack, the sophomores, juniors, and seniors prepared many selections that were presented at various times throughout the school year to the student body, as well as the public. In addition to performing at several assemblies, the Concert Choir also presented its annual Christmas and spring concerts.

Preparation for the senior high choral groups, along with a knowledge of general music, was gained by the members of the junior high chorus. The ninth grade choir spent much time on perfecting itself in order to present a fine program for the junior high Christmas assembly. Their efforts were again appreciated at the annual spring concert.

By explaining the intricate mechanics of music, Mrs. Mack brought a new understanding of music to many students.

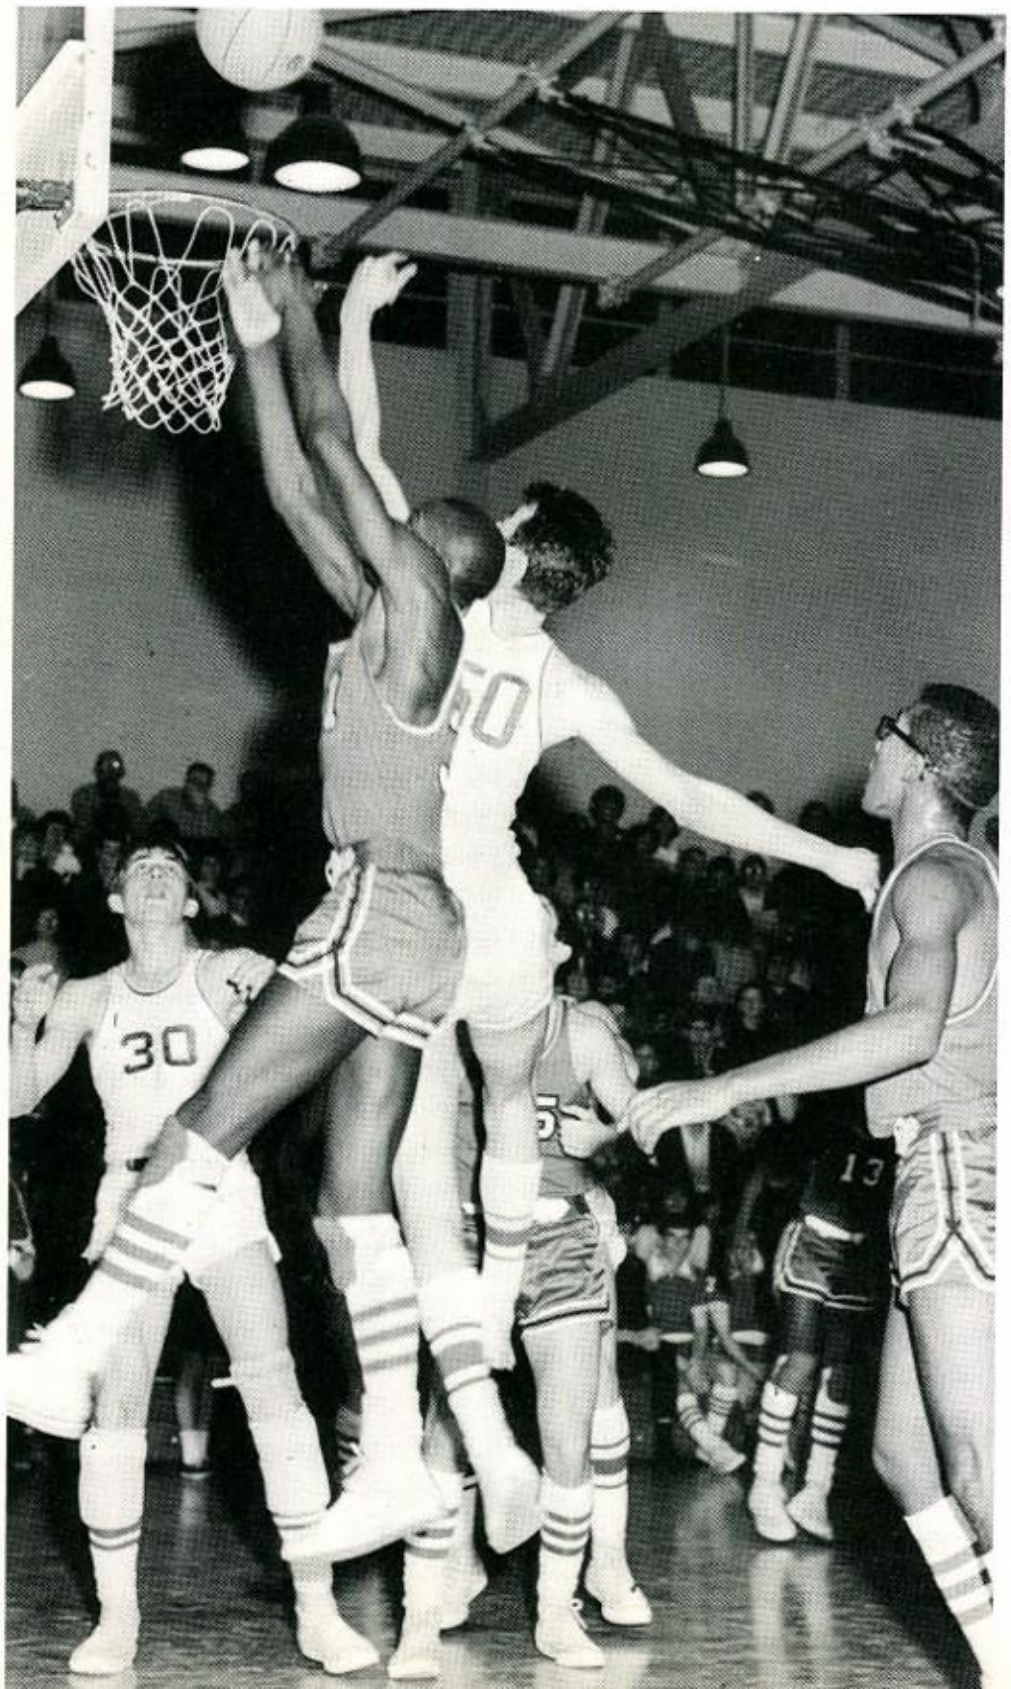
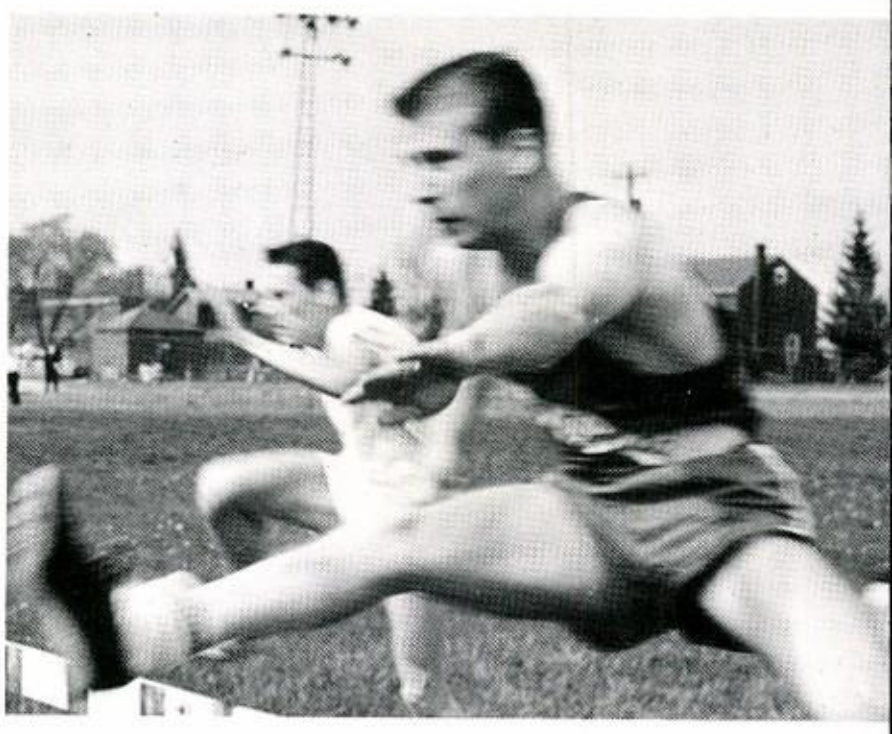
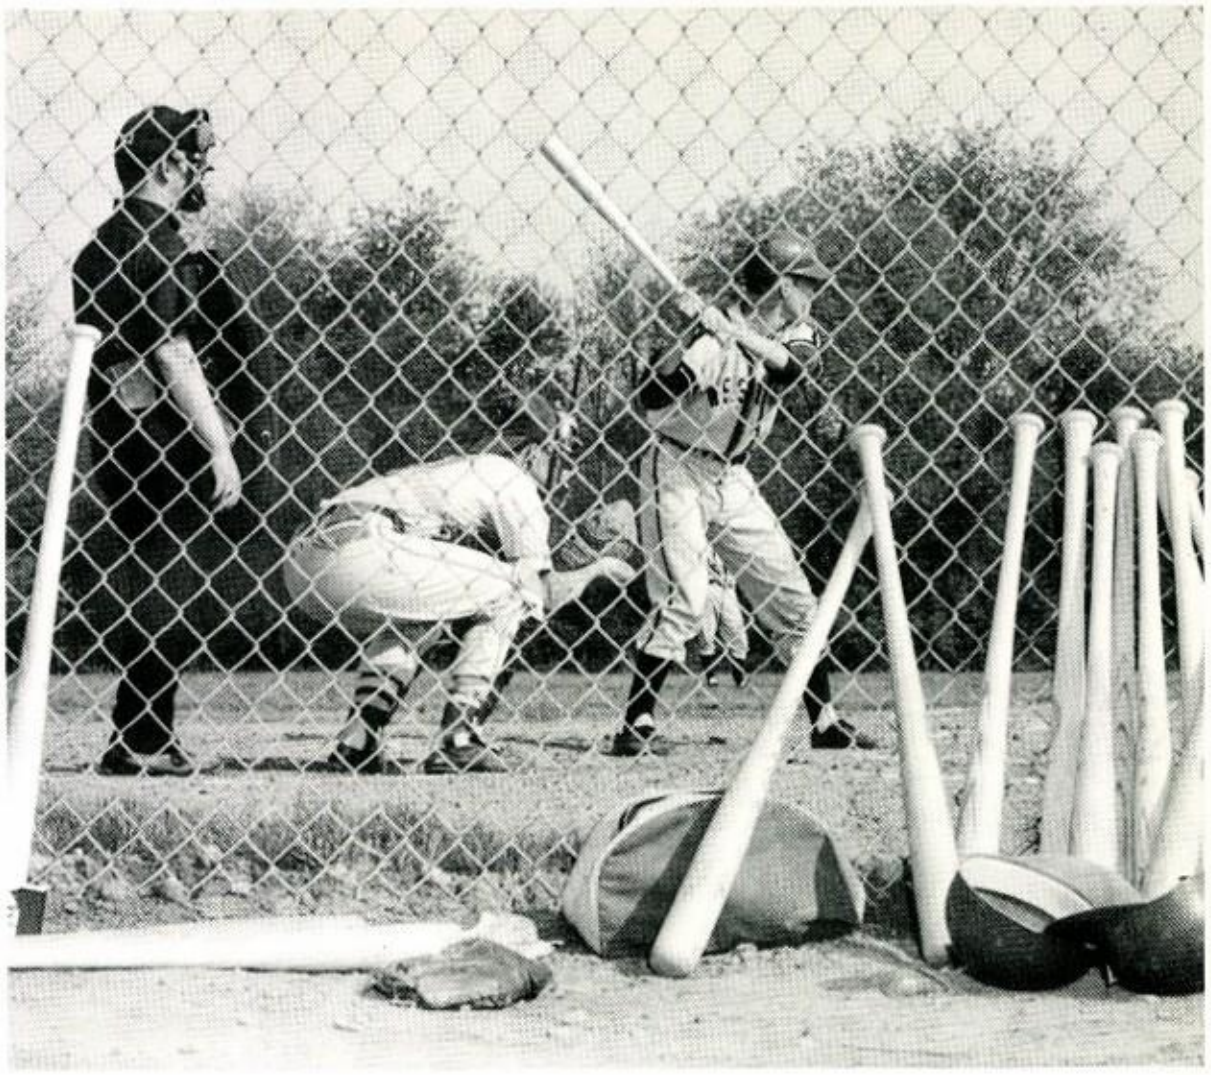
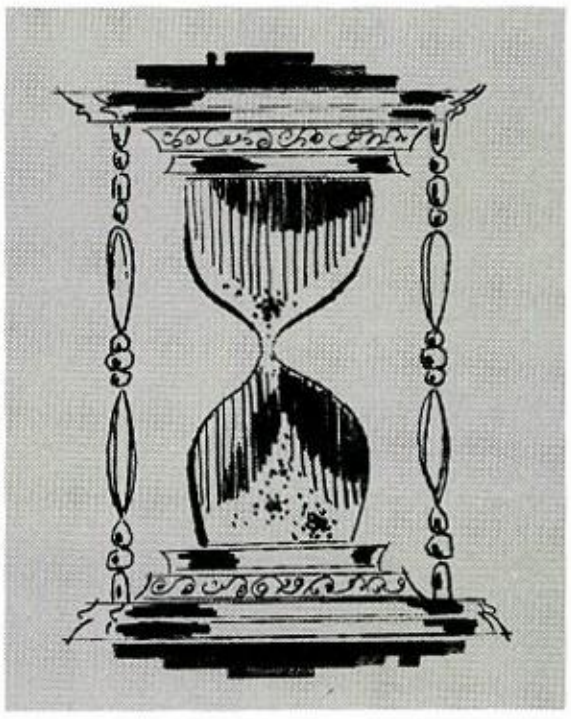
ATHLETICS









Athletics played an important part in the lives of all students at Riverside. The athletes not only acquired the skills of their sport but were made aware of the importance of sportsmanship and the need for academic achievement. The student body was given an opportunity to possess and exhibit school spirit through a well organized and well coached program which made the school a well respected participant in W.P.I.A.L. play.

Baseball

Building was the key to last year's Panther baseball team, which was the first under the new coach, Mr. Ellenich. Only two seniors were on the starting team, and the young team's lack of experience hurt them during the season. Although the record of four wins and eight losses was good for only a fourth place finish in Section IV competition, the team fought hard all year for its victories and was fighting to the end in each game. The pitching of the team held up well as Ray Ott and Ken Brandenberger turned in several fine performances; however, the fielding was not up to expectations. Leading the team in hitting was Tony Santagata with an average of .400.

Track

Riverside's varsity track team completed the season with four wins and four losses in dual-meet competition. Many of the losses were by a few points and due to the absence of the best runners. The squad showed strength in the running events, but was hurt by weaknesses in the field. They did well in the district meet placing 3rd, and finished 4th in the Midland Invitational. The boys showed not only agility but great spirit. This, together with sheer determination, provided the winning combination shown throughout the year.

All Sports Banquet

Riverside's annual All-Sports Banquet was the finale for the athletes, as well as the coaches. Many members of the various sports waited impatiently to receive their varsity letters. The most important of the track awards was the "Outstanding Track Man Award" which was given to the most deserving member of the team. The recipient of the award in 1965 was John Swesey. Another highlight was the excellent dinner, and there were also several enjoyable speakers.

Cross Country

Completing its best season in four years, the Cross Country team finished with a record of 13 wins and 2 defeats. Hard work, determination and long practices were keys to the successful season. The squad made a fine showing of 3rd in the W.P.I.A.L. and 4th in the Midwestern Athletic Conference. Five of six lettermen will be returning on next year's team, and along with some developing J. V. runners, this should produce another winning team.

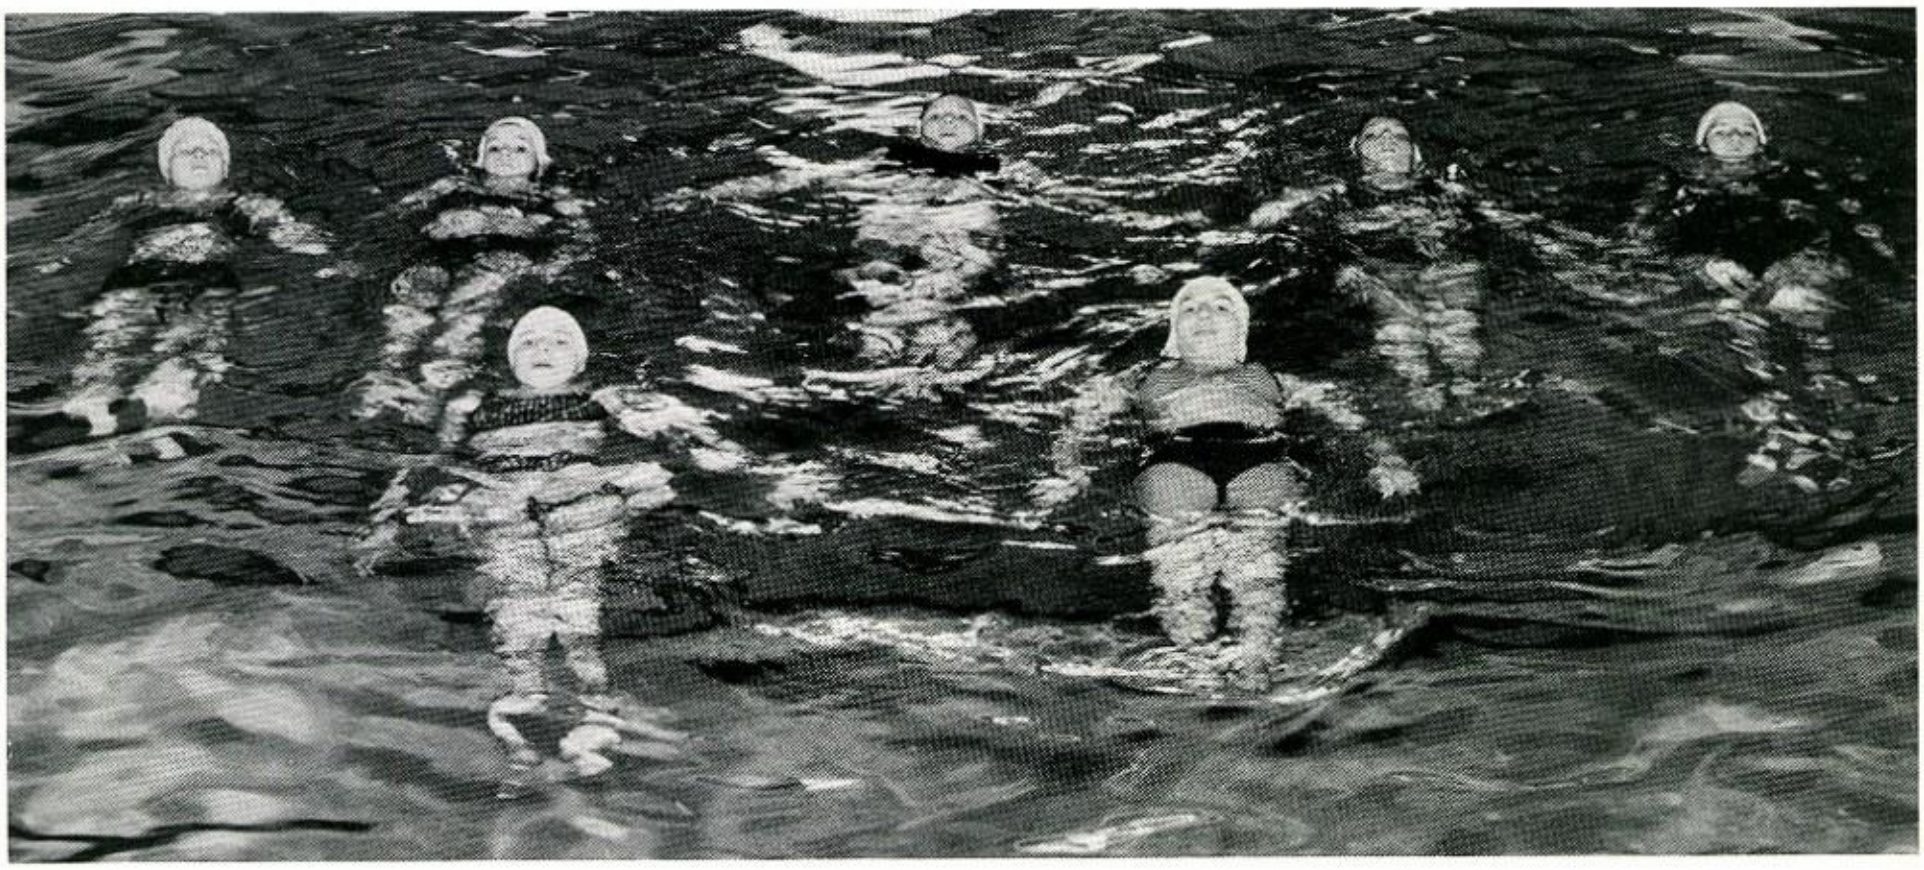
Rainbow Rhapsody

Another first this year at Riverside was the water show. While carrying out the theme, "Rainbow Rhapsody", students displayed their talents in synchronized swimming, racing, and water basketball. During the show a new pool record for the 25 yard freestyle was set by John Metheny, with a time of 11.8 seconds.



Beauty and co-ordination were exemplified in the various synchronized swimming routines that were a part of the water show.

Varsity Basketball

With an 11-10 record, the 1965-66 Varsity basketball team became the first winning team in the Panther's five years of competition. Throughout the year, the cagers of Coach John Navalesi displayed a fierce spirit which enabled them to post a 10-6 mark after a slow 1-4 start. The 5-5 state in Section XIV was the best ever compiled in Section competition After two hard-earned victories over rival Seneca Valley, the climax of the season come with a thrilling upset of highly ranked Mohawk.

"All right, now, settle down and move the ball." Coach Melfi shouts instructions to his team.

Completing its second season under coach William Melfi, the Junior Varsity showed an improved record over the previous year by posting 9 wins and 12 losses. The team was led by Sophomore Tony Nocera who tallied 220 points throughout the season. Tony was followed by Junior Eugene Adams collecting 168 points and doing a good job in the rebound department. The team was characterized by that never-say-die attitude and fought to the end in each game. Along with developing our future Varsity positions, the players acquired team spirit and showed fine sportsmanship.

Under the supervision of coaches, Mr. George, and Mr. Ellenich, the Junior High Basketball team finished with a fine 6-10 record, the best season yet. Long practices and hard work proved to be very valuable as the season progressed. The panther attack was led by Burt Lauten and Dennis Stacy who scored 145 and 106 points respectively. The experience gained by the squad should prove to be valuable in future years.

Competition is the key word on Saturday mornings at Park Lanes. The 10 teams of Riverside's Bowling League breed hot competition from September to May of each school year. Two events are annual for the league, the Singles and the Doubles Tournaments. This year Riverside was invited to enter teams in a Tournament held at Shenango Lanes. The once a year farce comes when the top student bowlers match talents with the faculty, with the students as the usual victors. The top bowlers and teams are rewarded with trophies at the climax of the season.

Although bound together by the common goals of learning, the classes at Riverside possessed a variety of interests and characteristics. The 1200 member student body displayed this variety through the various fads and crazes which they diligently followed. Although no two students were alike, each contributed in some measure to the overall school function and in return acquired some of the knowledge and experience necessary to live in harmony in today's everchanging world.

Versatility was exhibited in many

"That's my daughter!" The seniors' presentation of Time Out for Ginger was a complete success.

Twice a year students tackled the hundreds of questions that were presented on the semester exams.

Selling the candy was only half of the job. Sophomores also had to pack the candy and deliver it to their customers.

projects as well as in the classroom

An occassional get-together at a friend's house helped to relieve the everyday tensions of studying.

The long-awaited moment—the juniors finally get their rings.

Many students squeezed a part-time job into an already busy schedule.

As do all classes, the Class of 1966 looked forward to its senior year, and each day spent as seniors was filled with learning, friendship, and doing. But all too quickly, one by one, the events of the year passed — classes, dances, basketball games, exams, parties, and projects. Soon all these and the people who were a part of them had become just memories. Its members would scatter and their time would be used in other pursuits. All that would remain would be the ghost of the Class of 1966 which gave and received much as it spent its few, swiftly-passing, years at Riverside High School.

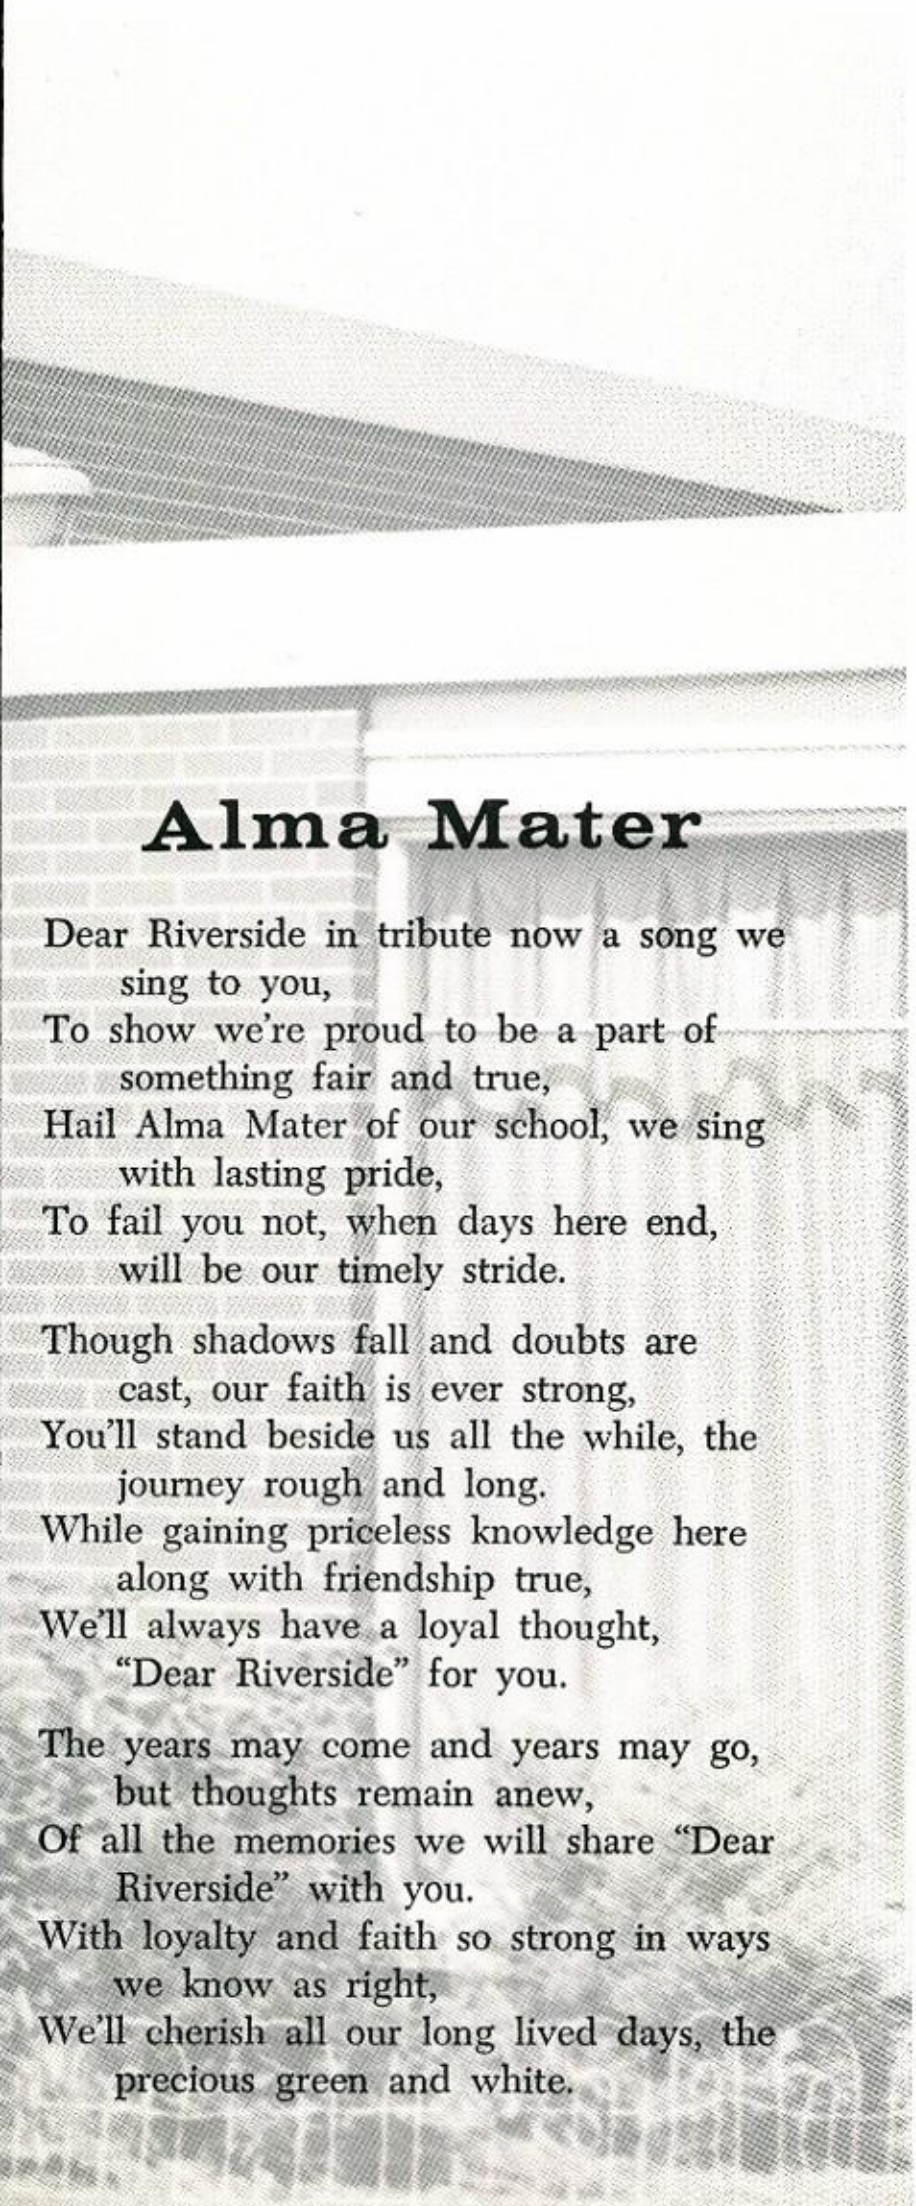
Remembering



Alma Mater

Dear Riverside in tribute now a song we sing to you,
To show we're proud to be a part of something fair and true,
Hail Alma Mater of our school, we sing
with lasting pride,
To fail you not, when days here end,
will be our timely stride.

Though shadows fall and doubts are cast, our faith is ever strong, You'll stand beside us all the while, the journey rough and long.
While gaining priceless knowledge here
along with friendship true,
We'll always have a loyal thought,
"Dear Riverside" for you.

The years may come and years may go,
but thoughts remain anew,
Of all the memories we will share "Dear
Riverside" with you.
With loyalty and faith so strong in ways
we know as right,
We'll cherish all our long lived days, the precious green and white.

The end of a school year brings a time for many things. For seniors it is a time for ending their high school days and beginning to take part in a new world. For underclassmen it is a time to forget about the hectic pace of school life and look forward to everything that summer holds. But for everyone it is a time for remembering—remembering the activities, the classes that can never be duplicated. The following school terms will bring times for the new and different, but the term of 1965-66 has already left its impression. The past nine months have brought a time for learning as well as the times for those things which are necessary to complete the life of a student. And although in reality this year can never be relived, when a student who has shared in this year turns the pages of this edition of the Pathfinder he will relive in his own memory everything that made this year a time to be remembered.
